Burning Code Killed by City Council

Existing Ordinance Proves Sufficient Following Study

City Council Tuesday night unanimously overruled a new ordinance governing outdoor burning of rubbish and garbage in the city.

The ordinance failed to get a single affirmative vote following the third reading of the proposal. The proposed laws were patterned after an ordinance used by the city of Athens.

John Jenkins, chairman of the council's safety committee, noted that the present ordinance on the burning of rubbish was a "good one" although a few additions should be made to update it.

Councilman Robert Turner, in commenting on the burning ordinance prior to a vote, concurred with Jenkins in saying the present ordinance would be sufficient with a few revisions. He added that his recommendations were made on the basis of an existing ordinance, not that "we don't need one."

A SECOND ordinance meeting with defeat, under suspension of rules following a second reading, dealt with the transfer of funds for remodeling of the municipal court facilities.

Frank Barnhill, chairman of the finance committee, asked that the ordinance be defeated. He noted that even with the transfer, it would not accomplish what municipal court officials were seeking. Barnhill said the request would be worked out in committee and added that $351.90 had already been spent for painting and labor in the court offices. Judge Sterling Lamb had requested a total of $1,000 in transfers to complete the project.

An ordinance appropriating $100 from the General Revenue Fund to the Incidentals Account of the Police Dept. met with the city solons' approval.

Chief of Police Robert Temple informed council that a bill in the amount of $1,054 would be forthcoming from Berger Hospital. He said the medical expense was billed to the city for the treatment of a prisoner who fractured several ribs in a fall on the stairway leading to the city jail in the basement of city hall.

In other action an ordinance approving the plat of Section 6 in the Ridgewood Subdivision was held to a first reading.

Fourth Ward Councilman John Simson announced his resignation from council due to a move from his precinct. He was publicly commended for a "job well done" by Councilman Jenkins.

The regular session of the city fathers was adjourned until 8 p. m. June 27th, at which time the Ridgewood Subdivision plat of Section 6 is to be further discussed.

Drug Study Program Advised

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consultant to the president's crime commission recommended today, to prevent drug abuse, that educational programs about drugs begin in elementary schools.

The consultant, Richard H. Blum of Stanford University, counting everything from coffee and aspirin to heroin, pictured the United States as a nation of drug users.

He also called for vastly increased studies of the effects of such drugs as marijuana and LSD.

The present known risks of using marijuana are not great, he said, and he recommended legislation that would lessen penalties for its use and possession.

Three studies by Blum were

Sen. Dodd Begg For a Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Sen. Thomas J. Dodd pleading with colleagues not to "drag me through anymore agony," the Senate headed toward a possible showdown by tonight or Thursday on the censure resolution against the Connecticut Democrat.

The white-haired Dodd, his voice trembling, asked for a vote Tuesday on the charge he double-billed the Senate and private groups for travel expenses.

"Make up your minds. If you want to brand me a thief do it today, before the sun goes down, and let me skulk away, ashamed to face you tomorrow," said Dodd.

"Give me a fair shake, give me a vote on this. Give me a night's sleep either in sorrow or in grief."

Then Dodd, who earlier in the debate told his colleagues of sleepless nights and growing weariness, slumped back in his seat, hopeful of an immediate vote.

He didn't get it, but Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said later he thought the Senate would come to a vote by Thursday, if not tonight.

Dodd also is charged in the resolution offered by the Senate ethics committee with converting at least $116,383 in political funds to his personal use.

That charge is listed first in the resolution and members of the ethics panel have refused consent to Dodd and his principal defender, Sen. Russell B. Long, to vote on the double-billing charges first.

Dodd said "nothing has gnawed more at my heart" than the double-billing charge, adding: "Do I want my children, my grandchildren, to believe I was this kind of conniver?"

"It is important, it's of the gravest importance," said Dodd, "that my honor and my reputation of 60 years not be stained by the accusation of six petty thefts of $1,700." That is the approximate amount the ethics committee said the senator received through double-billings.

"You want to mark me as a thief? You want to put that brand on me?" Dodd cried. "I tell you I don't deserve it."

He said he had more arguments to present against the charge that he converted to his own benefit money raised through political testimonials and other political events. But he made clear he had no desire to delay judgment on this.

Draft Law Awaits LBJ Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — A draft law extension bill that guarantees deferments for most college students, targets 19-year-olds for earliest induction and bars a lottery selection system awaits only President Johnson's signature to become law.

The final version of the bill, hammered into shape by House-Senate conferees, was sent to the President Tuesday by a 377-29 House vote. The Senate accepted the compromise version last week.

In its final form, the legislation more closely resembles recommendations of a panel headed by retired Gen. Mark Clark, which reported to the House Armed Services Committee, than those from a presidential commission under Burke Marshall, a former assistant attorney general.

Existing authority for the military draft expires June 30. The new legislation continues most provisions of the present law in effect, with some changes, until 1971.

But the bill specifically prohibits Johnson from changing the present selection method by using a national lottery system as he had suggested. An act of Congress would be required before such a change could be made. The Marshall commission had supported the switch while Clark's panel opposed a lottery in any form.

Under the new proposal, any requesting undergraduate college student would be entitled to deferment to continue his courses so long as he met scholastic and other standards of his school. Student deferments now are granted by law.

The student no longer has to stay in the upper half of his class, a requirement often stipulated by local boards.

The deferments would be effective until the student finishes his undergraduate work, reaches age 24 or leaves school, whichever comes first. He then would revert to the top of the age group most vulnerable to induction.

States Upping Corporation Income Taxes

West Virginia Others Boost Rate Structure

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

West Virginia will begin levying a 6 per cent corporate net income tax, effective July 1, 1967.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states—in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5½ per cent, in Montana from 5½ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

President At Last Is Grandfather

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent gave birth today to an 8-pound 10-ounce boy.

The baby is President Johnson's first grandchild.

Father Patrick J. Nugent, a box of cigars in his hand, made the announcement to reporters in the lobby at Seton Hospital.

"Luci's fine," he said.

Nugent said the baby was born at 6:59 a. m. CDT.

And he had more figures: The child is 21 inches long.

The 23-year-old father said Luci had already seen the baby and pronounced, "What a beautiful baby I have."

The 19-year-old mother was admitted to the hospital at 1 a. m. and the baby was born just under six hours later.

Mrs. Johnson was in the hospital with her daughter. Earlier she had notified the President at the White House that Luci had gone there.

Pat, wearing a blue shirt with no tie and dark slacks pointed out that his voice cracked afterward, smiling and showing no signs of weariness from the hours of waiting.

Asked how his wife was, he said, "wonderful."

Asked if his father-in-law knew the baby had been born, Pat said "yes," and explained that Mrs. Johnson had called the President to inform him.

There was no indication of when the President might come to this Texas capital to have a look at his grandchild.

Negro Is Killed In Atlanta Riot

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro man was shot to death and three other persons wounded Tuesday night as a flurry of rock and gas-bomb throwing evolved swiftly into gunfire from snipers and police.

Mayor Ivan Allen clamped a curfew on a six-block area encompassing the center of violence in predominantly Negro Dixie Hills.

Allen issued the order after visiting the area shortly after a fourth straight night of violence had subsided. The curfew bans persons under 18 from the streets from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m.

Krabach Puts Ceiling on School Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rhodes administration will go along with new revenues to raise $252 million for education above the balanced budget pending in the legislature, Finance Director Richard L. Krabach said today.

"If the amount goes beyond that, we will oppose it very vigorously," the director told a news conference. He said a higher sum might even invite a veto.

The final report of an education review committee named by Gov. James A. Rhodes to digest school and tax studies, recommended general fund appropriations for education of about $1.2 billion. That total was $376.4 million above the amount provided for the two-year period ending June 30.

Russo Denies NBC Statements On Garrison Show

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's presidential assassination found itself in more controversy today after a star witness provided a denial to statements aired by the National Broadcasting Co.

Perry Russo told newsmen Tuesday members of an NBC news team sought his help "to wreck the Garrison investigation."

He added that the NBC team alternated promises and threats in repeated efforts to enlist his cooperation.

In New York, the network denied Russo's detailed accusations.

Clay Gets Maximum Jail Term

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers for heavyweight champion Cassius Clay had an appeal motion ready today in the boxer's conviction on criminal charges of refusing induction for military service. They predicted eventual victory and said that jail is 18 months away at worst.

It took one day of testimony and motions and 21 minutes of jury deliberation for the verdict Tuesday, U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham imposed the maximum sentence, five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Clay said he had expected the worst, but he and his lawyers appeared shaken by the quickness of it all.

He walked from the courtroom free under the same $5,000 bond posted after his indictment in May for refusing to take the one step forward into the Army with other draftees.

In two court rulings Ingraham had destroyed the intended defense: that Clay, as a Negro, is discriminated against by the racial composition of draft boards, and that Clay, as Muhammad Ali, traveling bishop for the Black Muslims, is entitled to ministerial exemption from military duty.

Chief defense lawyer Hayden Covington of New York, said he saw a "better than even chance" for reversal of the conviction.

The appeal initiated today will be argued before the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Covington estimated it would be December or January before the panel could hear the case, which involved crates of files.

Methodist Told Pastorial Supply Becoming Scarce

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — An increasing number of Methodist churches will be without pastors if men and women are not challenged to enter the ministry, Bishop Francis E. Kearns told the North-East Ohio annual conference Tuesday.

The bishop said that because of a shortage of clergymen 27 churches will not have ministers at the close of the conference session this week. His appeal urging more persons into the ministry was made to the 1,200 laymen and ministers representing 780 local churches.

President John Dickhaut of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio said the number of pre-ministerial students in colleges and universities stands at an all-time low.

LBJ, Kosygin Unwilling To Make Trip

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain and Egypt took over the U.N. debate on the Middle East today as Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny journeyed to Cairo and a meeting between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin appeared less and less likely.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown headed the morning speakers' list before the 122-nation General Assembly. He was expected to urge appointment of a U.N. mediator to get peace talks started at once with Israel and the Arab side.

Egyptian Vice President Mahmoud Fawzi was certain to echo Arab demands for unconditional Israeli withdrawal from territory it seized during the lightning war.

Also scheduled to speak were Danish Premier Jens Otto Krag, who has been urging that Johnson of Kosygin meet; Italian Premier Aldo Moro, and Yugoslav Premier Mika Spiljak, whose government strongly supports Egypt.

Podgorny's visit to Cairo for talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser was seen as another Soviet move to restore Moscow's fallen prestige in the Arab world. So were reports in Egypt of new arms shipments from the Soviet Union.

The Egyptian press has been assailing Moscow for lack of support during the war and Soviet failure to back up Arab charges that Israel won because of armed support by the United States and Britain. The anti-Soviet comments disappeared, however, as word spread in the Egyptian capital that arms shipments from the Soviet Union had resumed.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al-Ahram said Marshal Matvei V. Zakharov, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces, arrived in the Egyptian capital Tuesday ahead of Podgorny. The Soviet president stopped overnight in Yugoslavia to confer with President Tito.

At U.N. headquarters, hope was fading among diplomats that Johnson would meet Kosygin. Indications were that both leaders were willing, but Johnson did not want to come to New York and Kosygin would not go to Washington.

U.S. officials said Monday Johnson had invited the premier to visit him but Kosygin declined. (Continued on Page 2)

Armed Man Tries To Enter Soviet UN Mission

NEW YORK (AP)—Police arrested a man carrying a loaded .32-caliber revolver and a hunting knife today as he attempted to gain entrance to the Soviet United Nations mission here. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was inside at the time.

The man, identified as Michael Rocco Natale, 40, was arrested about noon after he walked through police barriers in front of the mission rang the doorbell and tried to talk his way in.

Natale was carrying a small blue bag containing the weapons.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An administration plan requiring counties to share certain welfare payments with the state on a 50-50 basis represents "a distressing breach of good faith" a Cleveland welfare official says.

William D. Ginn, president of the Cleveland Welfare Federation, leveled the charge Tuesday night at a crowded budget bill hearing of the Senate Finance Committee. About 100 persons jammed the committee room and several dozen were turned away by highway patrolmen.

Several members of the Circleville Fire Department staff attended the session of City Council Tuesday evening in an effort to secure action for an increase in their pay scale.

In correspondence directed to the solons, it was pointed out that by comparison with other cities in the state of Ohio, the local firefighters are among the lowest paid.

The proposal asks for a beginning hourly rate of $2.08 an hour with a minimum annual salary of $6,000. Under the scale, a fireman after five years would receive $2.63 an hour or $7,500 annually.

The scale lists a starting salary of $7,800 for a lieutenant with a gradual increase to $8,700 after three years service. The fire chief's starting salary under the proposal would be $9,000 annually with $300 increases the first two years.

INFORMATION submitted with the pay scale the local firefighters are seeking included a list of 87 other city fire fighters' salaries. Circleville's ranked among the lowest three.

Current pay scale for a city fireman here ranges from $1.63 per hour to $1.80.

The second item of the local firefighters' proposal seeks time and one-half for overtime; 11 paid holidays annually; hospitalization to be paid by the city; and an annual clothing allowance of $100 per man.

Councilman John Jenkins noted that the safety and finance committees had met on Monday evening to discuss the firefighters' request for a pay scale adjustment.

Jenkins told council, as well as the firemen in attendance,

The idea is to organize transshipment of cargoes from Ashdod, Israel's new port on the Mediterranean, to Elath, Israel's outlet to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Red Sea.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said inquiry into the Israeli attack on the U.S. Navy communications ship Liberty has advanced closer to a possible court-martial. He said the military advocate, Col. Wage Report Lists Records Of Non-Farming Employes

About 4,900 workers in Pickaway County's nonfarming businesses earned taxable wages under the old-age, survivors and disability programs, according to John J. Carr, Social Security District Manager, Chillicothe.

Four hundred sixty-two reporting units of employers of nonfarm employes covered under the program paid out $5,871,000 in the first quarter of 1967.

The report shows five of the employing units reported 100 or more workers at that time. The largest proportion of employment, over 55 per cent of workers, was in manufacturing, with 2,781 employed in 26 establishments.

The current edition of County Business Patterns is the 12th in a series showing county and industry statistics based on wage reports filed under the Federal Social Security program.

This edition is divided into 53 parts contained in 53 separate books, one for the United States as a whole and one for each of the 50 States, Washington, D. C. and Puerto Rico, (which includes statistics for the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Guam).

The data are uniform and comparable from state to state and county to county and are shown for many kinds of business under the following broad industry groups: agricultural services, forestry, and fisheries; mining; contract construction; manufacturing; transportation and other public utilities; wholesale trade; retail trade; finance, insurance and real estate; and services.

The publication shows the number and location of workers, the industries in which they are employed, and how much they are paid in taxable earnings.

In addition to its use in administering the social security program, the publication furnishes businessmen with data to evaluate private demand for both industrial and consumer products, is valuable in analyzing market potentials and establishing advertising and sales programs, in analyzing the industrial structure of regional areas, and in making basic economic studies of small areas.

The Chillicothe social security office at 606 Central Center is open daily Monday through Friday (holidays excepted) from 8:30 a. m. to 4:45 p. m.

In addition, the office remains open on Thursdays until 8 p. m. for the convenience of those persons who are unable to come in during regular hours. The telephone number is 775-4950.

Commissioners Award Contract

Pickaway County Commissioners met in special session Wednesday to award a contract for painting of the Red River Bridge spanning the Scioto River.

The contract was awarded to the Atlas Painting and Sheet Metal Co., Inc., Campbell, O. The bid lowest of those submitted was $10,730.

Commissioners also passed a resolution closing the Circleville-Commercial Point Road over the Scioto River in Jackson Twp.

The road will be closed Monday through Saturday, 7 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., for approximately two weeks. The area affected is from the Red Bridge, Road 38 to Township Road 129. The resolution goes into effect today.

The agreement calls for hourly wage increases of 16 cents this year and 12 cents next year.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

North Carolina cut income taxes by increasing exemptions.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2 1/2 to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2 1/2 per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2 1/2 per cent sales tax and former 2 1/2 per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island—4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington—4.2 per cent to 4 1/2 per cent; and in Wyoming—2 1/2 per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

Board of Health Studies Proposal To Close Jail

A special session of the Circleville Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon to discuss the report of the County Board of Visitors which recommended the City Jail be closed immediately.

The Visitors cited the general unsanitary conditions under which a prisoner could spend up to two days as one of the primary objections in keeping the jail open.

Police Chief Robert Temple was present to guide members through the jail and answer questions posed by the Board. He emphasized the unsafe condition of the stairs and noted it was a hazard to officers as well as a prisoner being led down the steps.

He also related the problem of possible spreading of communicable disease by prisoners due to the drinking water problem.

A QUESTION was raised during the meeting as to the authenticity of a statement in Monday's edition of The Herald concerning the holding of juveniles in the city jail.

Chief Temple assured the Board that this has been done and some have spent the night there.

Dr. J. M. Hedges voiced the opinion that such a place as the city jail, meaning the bare minimum of everything in the cells, is "a necessary evil" for intoxicated persons to "sober up."

Chief Temple pointed out that many jails in the state have a cell or two called "tanks," with nothing but a bench for the intoxicated or very belligerent person. "This is done," he noted, "to give the person a chance to cool off so we can put him in with other prisoners."

A possible solution to the problem of an inadequate jail offered at the meeting was to suggest to the Water Dept. that it rent the building housing its offices which is directly behind the City Building.

Chief Temple stated that there are portable cells available that could be put in the building. "This has been done elsewhere with much success," Temple said.

DISCUSSION which followed centered on whether the Board of Health should go on record as condemning the jail. Some members did not want to "condemn" the jail because they saw the need for a "tank" as

FBI Arrests Costra Nostra Man, 2 More

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI arrested Tuesday three men including the alleged head of the New England Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, in connection with murder and racketeering in New England.

They were identified as Raymond L.S. Patriarca, 52, Providence, R.I., identified before a Senate subcommittee as the Cosa Nostra "boss" of New England, Henry Tameleo, 65, Cranston, R.I., and Ronald Cassesso, 35, Somerville, Mass., presently serving an armed robbery sentence at the Norfolk, Mass., prison.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said all three were indicted by a U.S. grand jury in Boston on charges of conspiring to use interstate commerce facilities with the intent of killing William Marfco of Providence. Marfco was murdered in 1966.

Clark said the indictment also charges Patriarca with one count and Tameleo with two counts of using interstate commerce with the intent to commit murder.

All charges involve attempts to further gambling activities in New England, the indictment said.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market managed a cautious advance early this afternoon in active trading.

Selected issues were strong. There was no group leadership. Gains outnumbered losses by a fairly narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The margin to the upside was not much better on the American Stock Exchange which was having another big day after its 6.28-million share total of Tuesday, the fourth largest in history. Turnover was running below the Tuesday rate.

Volume on the Big Board was running somewhat below Tuesday's ten-million-share total.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .18 at 880.43.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 327.4 with industrials up .8, rails unchanged and utilities up .4.

TODAY In History

Today is Wednesday, June 21, the 172nd day of 1967. There are 193 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1788, the U.S. Constitution went into effect as New Hampshire became the ninth state to ratify it.

On this date: In 1631, John Smith, the English colonist who said he was rescued from the Indians by Pocahontas, died.

In 1819, the composer Jacques Offenbach was born.

In 1834, the American inventor Cyrus McCormick was granted a patent for his reaping machine.

In 1879, F. W. Woolworth opened the first successful five and ten cents store in Lancaster, Pa.

In 1963, the archbishop of Milan, Italy — Cardinal Giovanni Battista Montini — was elected pope. He took the name of Pope Paul VI.

Ten years ago—the U.N. Command in Korea accused the North Korean and Chinese Communists of repeated violations of the 1953 armistice.

Five years ago—Secretary of State Dean Rusk saw the Berlin wall for the first time and predicted it eventually would be broken down.

One year ago—Saudi Arabia's King Faisal arrived in Washington for talks with President Johnson.

tax on ordinary and investment income.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

North Carolina cut income taxes by increasing exemptions.

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional taxes and surtaxes on banks and corporations.

With enactment of two new sales and use taxes so far this year, 44 states and the District of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2½ per cent sales tax and former 2½ per cent use tax.

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island—4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington—4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming—2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

Council President Cited for Speeding

Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St., cited by Circleville Police Sunday for speeding 46 miles per hour in a 35 mile zone, was handed a suspended fine of $10 and costs Monday by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

Clifton, who is president of Circleville Council, entered a plea of no contest to the charge. Patrolman Wesley Barton was the arresting officer.

MEASLES CLINIC — Dr. Frank Moore and Paul Roan, County and City Health Commissioners, remind parents who have children between the ages of 1 and 12 of the Measles Clinic to be held Sunday. The vaccine will be administered free of charge to all Pickaway County children at the Fairgrounds Grange Building and the Junior High School from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. A donation of 25 cents will be accepted to help defray the cost of the vaccine.

Board of Health Studies Proposal To Close Jail

A special session of the Circleville Board of Health was held Tuesday afternoon to discuss the report of the County Board of Visitors which recommended the City Jail be closed immediately.

The visitors cited the general unsanitary conditions under which a prisoner could spend up to two days as one of the primary objections in keeping the jail open.

Police Chief Robert Temple was present to guide members through the jail and answer questions posed by the Board. He emphasized the unsafe condition of the stairs and noted it was a hazard to officers as well as a prisoner being led down the steps.

He also related the problem of possible spreading of communicable disease by prisoners due to the drinking water problem.

A QUESTION was raised during the meeting as to the authenticity of a statement in Monday's edition of The Herald concerning the holding of juveniles in the city jail.

Chief Temple assured the Board that this has been done and some have spent the night there.

Dr. J. M. Hedges voiced the opinion that such a place as the city jail, meaning the bare minimum of everything in the cells, is "a necessary evil" for intoxicated persons to "sober up."

Chief Temple pointed out that many jails in the state have a cell or two called "tanks," with nothing but a bench for the intoxicated or very belligerent prisoner. "This is done," he noted, "to give the person a chance to cool off so we can put him in with other prisoners."

A possible solution to the problem of an inadequate jail offered at the meeting was to suggest to the Water Dept. that it rent the building housing its offices which is directly behind the City Building.

Chief Temple stated that there are portable cells available that could be put in the building. "This has been done elsewhere with much success," Temple said.

DISCUSSION which followed centered on whether the Board of Health should go on record as condemning the jail. Some members did not want to "condemn" the jail because they saw the need for a "tank" as

Shipping Interruption

East and Gulf Coast ports again were shut down by a maritime strike at a time when the nation could least afford it.

Although the contract of the deck officers contains a no-strike clause, members of the International Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots walked out. A four-year contract resulted from a 78-day stoppage two years ago on the same coasts.

The dispute is over money, with the union demanding pay parity with other maritime unions. The deck officers have yet to set a value on "parity," a last-hour negotiating meeting with owners having failed.

This is a deplorable situation that has been described as "a vicious merry-go-round" from which someone must find a way to get off. Union officials say they will not submit to arbitration. Invitations to both sides to a meeting called by Labor Undersecretary James J. Reynolds were ignored.

Affected by the strike are nearly a third of the nation's active merchant fleet—including greatly needed tankers to meet the Middle East oil crisis.

The lines involved are subsidized by the federal government for foreign operations. They cannot operate on the traditional private enterprise plan because of past union demands, which make it impossible for them to compete with foreign vessels employing less highly paid labor.

It would be difficult to think of a greater disservice to the nation at this time. Someone, Mr. Reynolds says, "must save the industry and these unions from destroying themselves." And also the public—the innocent bystander caught in the crossfire—might be worth saving, too.

This, of course, is typical Labor department doubletalk. Just how are the ship owners destroying themselves—by paying wages three or four times as high as those paid by other maritime nations?

parents may also find consolation in Jennifer's achievement. She didn't grow up by the calendar or clock, choosing to take her own sweet time of it.

By 14, she not only had caught up with the fast talkers, she could outspell them. Probably has learned to think for herself, too.

A 14-year-old Nebraska girl named Jennifer Reinke has won the national spelling bee, thereby lending inspiration to late bloomers. Jennifer was nearly four before she spoke a word. Now she can spell chihuahua faster than most kids can piece out pooch.

Solution to Suez Canal Issue

By John Chamberlain

If the UN is really looking to a solution for the problem of users' access to the Suez Canal, why not recur to the proposition of non-political ownership?

Interestingly enough, Christopher Stone, a young law professor at the University of Southern California, thinks that a proprietary corporation might be a good approach to resolving all the great problems of the oceans, providing navigational services, regulating fishing rights, and developing undersea resources. Professor Stone happens to be the son of I. F. Stone, the Leftist editor of I. F. Stone's Weekly, a Washington, D. C., publication which would scarcely find anything to commend in the proprietary idea. But the son, who is just as radical as his father, only in an opposite direction, may be on the track of something that could be applied as a starter to the Suez waterway.

As a matter of record, proprietary non-political ownership of the Suez was proposed back in the middle Nineties by a retired airplane propeller manufacturer named Spencer Heath. Mr. Heath's blueprint makes interesting reading today. It called for "the leading shipping interests who use the Canal to form a Canal Owners Corporation to be chartered by each one and all" of the eighteen or more governments, including Egypt, which were "most interested."

According to the Heath outline, the powers and limitations of the proprietary corporation were to be defined and agreed upon by the various governments, with Egypt being handsomely rewarded for its participation in a joint territorial sovereignty with cash payments from funds raised by the new corporation. The payments were to be guaranteed by all the interested governments in proportion to their original interest in establishing the charter.

Mr. Heath's suggestion, in the Fifties, called for the issue of new Suez Corporation shares to pay for taking over the old equity rights in the Canal. As of 1967, the equity rights, presumably, would be purchased from Egypt itself. But arrangements could be made to diffuse stock ownership in the new corporation to the ends of the earth, with allotments for sale in all the maritime nations. Mr. Heath thought a proprietary canal corporation would "make such profits that it could duplicate the Canal," thus allowing for "one-way traffic both ways."

As a "solvent and stable business corporation," said Mr. Heath, "its shares would come into very wide demand... especially among those persons and corporations most engaged in commerce among the nations." There would be a "covenant of non-aggression against any of the tangible or intangible properties and rights of the new corporation."

Mr. Heath's proposition was dismissed as a pipe dream in the Fifties. Presumably, it won't get anywhere as long as Nasser nourishes the dream of pushing Israel into the sea and closing out the Middle East to any nation that refuses to deal with an Arab monopoly of the Suez waterway. Eventually, however, the Egyptians may get tired of Nasser's pursuit of glory. The Indonesians put up with Sukarno, their own Nasser, until he had run a potentially rich island empire into complete bankruptcy. Then they decided to get rid of him. When disillusion sets in over Nasser's inability to put Egypt on the path to an economic development that will feed its steadily increasing population, some subsequent leader might be interested in creating a proprietary canal company that would take the issue of access to an international waterway out of politics. There would be plenty of room for both Jew and Arab in the Middle East if only the political feud could be brought to an end and commercial and industrial development be allowed to take over.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RUDI GERNREICH, the eminent designer, rues the day he dreamed up the topless bathing suit. "I think any woman who appears in a public place in one of those things is vulgar," he asserts. "When I predicted that the trend toward nudity in swim suits was escalating, a magazine editor asked me to design a suit completely topless as a gimmick. The last thing that occurred to me was that anyone actually would wear one, and I was speechless when the orders began rolling in."

The head of the English department at a certain large midwestern state university had been very sarcastic and belittling about colleagues who had "cheaped themselves by appearing on TV." When he was invited to appear as a guest on a panel show himself, however, his attitude changed immediately. In fact, the moment he reached the last sentence of the letter of invitation, which read, "The fee will be one hundred dollars," he dashed off his note of acceptance, concluding, "I am happy to enclose my check for one hundred dollars herewith!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How safe is it to use the new plastic products for the removal of wrinkles and scars underneath the skin?

J. C. E., New York
Dear Miss E.: Your question suggests that you may have been misinformed or that you are simply confused.

"Plastic products" are never used to remove wrinkles or scars. These can be removed only by surgery.

For the past 15 years, numerous synthetic substances have been used, by injection under the skin, to smooth out furrows and wrinkles.

Some of the synthetics were found to be injurious and not completely free of danger. These soon were discarded. Paraffin, wax and other chemicals did not fulfill the safety requirements and were immediately discontinued by doctors and surgeons.

For the past ten years, a newer rubber-like synthetic silicone has been used with more success and with fewer disadvantages. It is injected in liquid form beneath a wrinkle and by filling out the space, makes it appear smooth and cosmetically attractive.

Depressed scars, pock marks, wrinkles and crow's feet are gratifyingly improved with small amounts of this silicone. The injections are painless and do not produce growths, the hazard that made previous products unsafe.

Although many surgeons and plastic surgeons use the procedure and have had successful and rewarding results, silicone injections have not been given complete clearance. Plastic surgeons and skin specialists carefully select the patients on whom they use liquid silicone. They observe them carefully for any unusual effects, and keep their patients well within the limits of safety. There is a tremendous amount of continuing research to find even safer and more satisfactory products for this type of cosmetic treatment.

It is better for the health to get angry and blow off steam, or to suppress it and bottle it up?

M. N., Ohio
Dear Mr. N.: It is good for the health to bring out in the open feelings of fear, of resentment, or of justified annoyance, rather than to keep these feelings bottled up within you, especially if it prevents you from functioning well. But to state your case it is not necessary (as some people think) to fly into a rage and lose your temper.

Anger has never been the way to solve a major problem. And small problems do not deserve anger. Many people pay a great penalty for "popping off" for the slightest reason. After the situations are over, they may feel worse than they did before.

When there is justification for anger, it is reasonable to express it within reasonable limits. Anger that is triggered by an unimportant occurrence is unjustified, and needs further self-inspection.

Anger, like other emotions, should be tempered with good judgment. Expressed or unexpressed anger actually does things to the functions of the body. Adrenalin is poured into the blood, the blood pressure is raised and, in general, the physiology of the mind and body are temporarily thrown out of gear. The heart, the lungs and the blood circulation should not pay the penalty for pointless anger.

Feet deserve the attention of a good chiropodist or podiatrist. Only they can cut corns and calluses with safety.

Have You Crossed Border?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Border crossings are often controversial. They have been throughout history.

But the most controversial border today isn't a political border. The one that most people are anxious about isn't even on any map—it's the borderline between youth and middle age.

Many who have crossed it deny that they have; others cross it without ever realizing it.

How then can one tell reliably if one is middle-aged? Well, actions speak louder than prose.

Here is a tentative guide, based on actual conduct. You're probably middle-aged if:

When a new neighbor moves in next door, you automatically assume he'll be worse than the one who just moved away.

You find yourself muttering to all who will listen, "I don't want any more trouble. All I want is a little peace and quiet." When you yawn in public, you no longer bother to apologize. You realize that a public yawn is about the most honest act a man does in life.

You have forgotten the name of the red-haired girl who turned you down for a date in high school, but you can name to the hour and day just how far away you are from a pension.

Anytime you are served a piece of meat the first thing you do is cut the fat off it.

It's hard for you to make up your mind which you hate more, the alarm clock or the telephone.

Instead of pretending you don't have prejudices, you tend to brag about them. You feel they are a sign of courage and character.

You dislike buying a new pair of shoes because it takes so long to break them in.

At breakfast you and your wife now always start the day by asking each other, "Did you sleep well?" Each then gives a 10-minute summary about how restless a night he or she spent, and the probable reason.

At the office the only fellow workers younger than you that you really like are those who come to you for advice. Those who solve their own problems without your help, you feel, are smart alecks.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The slow agony continues for Big Bill Zeckendorf, the man who showed how money could be borrowed at high rates and more money made with it in the real estate market—as long as real estate remained strong.

But this amiable bear of a man was like a juggler who stepped on a banana peel. Everything came crashing down when hotel receipts slowed, real estate prices slipped, and a few other factors interfered.

Zeckendorf is no ordinary man by any measure.

In physique he is more than six feet tall, and he weighs far more than 200 pounds.

In real estate he was the biggest. His empire was in the hundreds of millions of dollars. He helped arrange the deal for the United Nations site. He owned skyscrapers, shopping centers, hotels, in cities such as Los Angeles, Denver, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago.

And in financial matters, nothing came down with more splinters, dust and grinding chaos than Webb Knapp Inc., the vehicle of the Zeckendorf fortune. And now the prospects look even dimmer this week.

Forced into bankruptcy in May, 1965, Webb Knapp is now in the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy, Mortimer M. Caplin. As former Internal Revenue commissioner, Caplin may be the man ideally suited for the complex job of trying to find who owes what and to whom.

Caplin this week reported to a federal judge that the hope of continuing the company, rather than liquidating it, "is at this time not very bright." In addition, he is suing Zeckendorf for mismanagement.

And so the barbs continue to be fired into the hide of this huge but surprisingly sensitive fellow, who has been forced over the past few years to admit to a humiliating string of reverses.

Later, he lost control of some of his properties because he couldn't pay the bills. And some of his subsidiaries went into bankruptcy.

Finally, Zeckendorf smoothed his pride and held a public auction of various New York parcels that he desperately needed to turn into cash.

Throughout, he publicly expressed his faith. If creditors are patient, he said, "the company will be on the road to a renaissance of first-rate scale."

Shipping Interruption

East and Gulf Coast ports again were shut down by a maritime strike at a time when the nation could least afford it.

Although the contract of the deck officers contains a no-strike clause, members of the International Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots walked out. A four-year contract resulted from a 78-day stoppage two years ago on the same coasts.

The dispute is over money, with the union demanding pay parity with other maritime unions. The deck officers have yet to set a value on "parity," a last-hour negotiating meeting with owners having failed.

This is a deplorable situation that has been described as "a vicious merry-go-round" from which someone must find a way to get off. Union officials say they will not submit to arbitration. Invitations to both sides to a meeting called by Labor Undersecretary James J. Reynolds were ignored.

Affected by the strike are nearly a third of the nation's active merchant fleet—including greatly needed tankers to meet the Middle East oil crisis.

The lines involved are subsidized by the federal government for foreign operations. They cannot operate on the traditional private enterprise plan because of past union demands, which make it impossible for them to compete with foreign vessels employing less highly paid labor.

It would be difficult to think of a greater disservice to the nation at this time. Someone, Mr. Reynolds says, "must save the industry and these unions from destroying themselves." And also the public—the innocent bystander caught in the crossfire—might be worth saving, too.

This, of course, is typical Labor department doubletalk. Just how are the ship owners destroying themselves—by paying wages three or four times as high as those paid by other maritime nations?

Easy Does It

A 14-year-old Nebraska girl named Jennifer Reinke has won the national spelling bee, thereby lending inspiration to late bloomers. Jennifer was nearly four before she spoke a word. Now she can spell chihuahua faster than most kids can piece out pooch.

In these days of high competitiveness in the classroom, overwrought parents may also find consolation in Jennifer's achievement. She didn't grow up by the calendar or clock, choosing to take her own sweet time of it.

By 14, she not only had caught up with the fast talkers, she could out-spell them. Probably has learned to think for herself, too.

Solution to Suez Canal Issue

By John Chamberlain

If the UN is really looking to a solution for the problem of users' access to the Suez Canal, why not recur to the proposition of non-political ownership?

Interestingly enough, Christopher Stone, a young law professor at the University of Southern California, thinks that a proprietary corporation might be a good approach to resolving all the great problems of the oceans, providing navigational services, regulating fishing rights, and developing undersea resources. Professor Stone happens to be the son of I. F. Stone, the Leftist editor of I. F. Stone's Weekly, a Washington, D. C., publication which would scarcely find anything to commend in the proprietary idea. But the son, who is just as radical as his father, only in an opposite direction, may be on the track of something that could be applied as a starter to the Suez waterway.

As a matter of record, proprietary non-political ownership of the Suez was proposed back in the middle Nineteen Fifties by a retired airplane propeller manufacturer named Spencer Heath. Mr. Heath's blueprint makes interesting reading today. It called for "the leading shipping interests who use the Canal to form a Canal Owners Corporation to be chartered by each one and all" of the eighteen or more governments, including Egypt, which were "most interested."

According to the Heath outline, the powers and limitations of the proprietary corporation were to be defined and agreed upon by the various governments, with Egypt being handsomely rewarded for its participation in a joint territorial sovereignty with cash payments from funds raised by the new corporation. The payments were to be guaranteed by all the interested governments in proportion to their original interest in establishing the charter.

Mr. Heath's suggestion, in the Fifties, called for the issue of new Suez Corporation shares to pay for taking over the old equity rights in the Canal. As of 1967, the equity rights, presumably, would be purchased from Egypt itself. But arrangements could be made to diffuse stock ownership in the new corporation to the ends of the earth, with allotments for sale in all the maritime nations. Mr. Heath thought a proprietary canal corporation would "make such profits that it could duplicate the Canal," thus allowing for "one-way traffic both ways."

As a "solvent and stable business corporation," said Mr. Heath, "its shares would come into very wide demand... especially among those persons and corporations most engaged in commerce among the nations." There would be a "covenant of non-aggression against any of the tangible or intangible properties and rights of the new corporation."

Mr. Heath's proposition was dismissed as a pipe dream in the Fifties. Presumably, it won't get anywhere as long as Nasser nourishes the dream of pushing Israel into the sea and closing out the Middle East to any nation that refuses to deal with an Arab monopoly of the Suez waterway. Eventually, however, the Egyptians may get tired of Nasser's pursuit of glory. The Indonesians put up with Sukarno, their own Nasser, until he had run a potentially rich island empire into complete bankruptcy. Then they decided to get rid of him.

When disillusion sets in over Nasser's inability to put Egypt on the path to an economic development that will feed its steadily increasing population, some subsequent leader might be interested in creating a proprietary canal company that would take the issue of access to an international waterway out of politics. There would be plenty of room for both Jew and Arab in the Middle East if only the political feuding could be brought to an end and commercial and industrial development be allowed to take over.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

RUDI GERNREICH, the eminent designer, runs the day he dreamed up the topless bathing suit. "I think any woman who appears in a public place in one of those things is vulgar," he asserts. "When I predicted that the trend toward nudity in swim suits was escalating, a magazine editor asked me to design a suit completely topless as a gimmick. The last thing that occurred to me was that anyone actually would wear one, and I was speechless when the orders began rolling in."

The head of the English department at a certain large midwestern state university had been very sarcastic and belittling about colleagues who had "cheaped themselves by appearing on TV." When he was invited to appear as a guest on a panel show himself, however, his attitude changed immediately. In fact, the moment he reached the last sentence of the letter of invitation, which read, "The fee will be one hundred dollars," he dashed off his note of acceptance, concluding, "I am happy to enclose my check for one hundred dollars herewith!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How safe is it to use the new plastic products for the removal of wrinkles and scars underneath the skin?

J. C. E., New York
Dear Miss E.: Your question suggests that you may have been misinformed or that you are simply confused.

"Plastic products" are never used to remove wrinkles or scars. These can be removed only by surgery.

For the past 15 years, numerous synthetic substances have been used, by injection under the skin, to smooth out furrows and wrinkles.

Some of the synthetics were found to be injurious and not completely free of danger. These soon were discarded. Paraffin, wax and other chemicals did not fulfill the safety requirements and were immediately discontinued by doctors and surgeons.

For the past ten years, a newer rubber-like synthetic silicone has been used with more success and with fewer disadvantages. It is injected in liquid form beneath a wrinkle and by filling out the space, makes it appear smooth and cosmetically attractive.

Depressed scars, pock marks, wrinkles and crow's feet are gratifyingly improved with small amounts of this silicone. The injections are painless and do not produce growths, the hazard that made previous products unsafe.

Although many surgeons and plastic surgeons use the procedure and have had successful and rewarding results, silicone injections have not been given complete clearance.

Plastic surgeons and skin specialists carefully select the patients on whom they use liquid silicone. They observe them carefully for any unusual effects, and keep their patients well within the limits of safety. There is a tremendous amount of continuing research to find even safer and more satisfactory products for this type of cosmetic treatment.

It is better for the health to get angry and blow off steam, or to suppress it and bottle it up?

M. N., Ohio
Dear Mr. N.: It is good for the health to bring out in the open feelings of fear, of resentment, or of justified annoyance, rather than to keep these feelings bottled up within you, especially if it prevents you from functioning well. But to state your case it is not necessary (as some people think) to fly into a rage and lose your temper.

Anger has never been the way to solve a major problem. And small problems do not deserve anger. Many people pay a great penalty for "popping off" for the slightest reason. After the situations are over, they may feel worse than they did before.

When there is justification for anger, it is reasonable to express it within reasonable limits. Anger that is triggered by an unimportant occurrence is unjustified, and needs further self-inspection.

Anger, like other emotions, should be tempered with good judgment. Expressed or unexpressed anger actually does things to the functions of the body. Adrenalin is poured into the blood, the blood pressure is raised and, in general, the physiology of the mind and body are temporarily thrown out of gear. The heart, the lungs and the blood circulation should not pay the penalty for pointless anger.

Feet deserve the attention of a good chiropodist or podiatrist. Only they can cut corns and calluses with safety.

Have You Crossed Border?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Border crossings are often controversial. They have been throughout history.

But the most controversial border today isn't a political border. The one that most people are anxious about isn't even on any map—it's the borderline between youth and middle age.

Many who have crossed it deny that they have; others cross it without ever realizing it.

How then can one tell reliably if one is middle-aged? Well, actions speak louder than prose.

Here is a tentative guide, based on actual conduct. You're probably middle-aged if:

When a new neighbor moves in next door, you automatically assume he'll be worse than the one who just moved away.

You find yourself muttering to all who will listen, "I don't want any more trouble. All I want is a little peace and quiet."

When you yawn in public, you no longer bother to apologize. You realize that a public yawn is about the most honest act a man does in life.

You have forgotten the name of the red-haired girl who turned you down for a date in high school, but you can name to the hour and day just how far away you are from a pension.

Anytime you are served a piece of meat the first thing you do is cut the fat off it.

It's hard for you to make up your mind which you hate more, the alarm clock or the telephone.

Instead of pretending you don't have prejudices, you tend to brag about them. You feel they are a sign of courage and character.

You dislike buying a new pair of shoes because it takes so long to break them in.

At breakfast you and your wife now always start the day by asking each other, "Did you sleep well?" Each then gives a 10-minute summary about how restless a night he or she spent; and the probable reason.

At the office the only fellow workers younger than you that you really like are those who come to you for advice. Those who solve their own problems without your help, you feel, are smart alecks.

Film Censorship Has Reached End of Road

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie men tell the story of how films were censored in Kansas in the old days.

The State Board of Review was in Kansas City, Kan., near film distributors, and the only space to be found for showings was in the Fire Department headquarters.

Firemen and off-duty police were invited to watch. When their whoops and catcalls reached a certain pitch, board members decided that the scene should be censored.

Censoring was just as haphazard in other areas. Memphis, which had the strictest censorship of any American city, once banned "The Southerner" because it painted an uncompromising picture of the South. Chicago deleted the birth of a buffalo from Walt Disney's "The Vanishing Prairie."

All that has changed. An Associated Press survey discloses that local and state censorship of movies has all but vanished.

Almost from the beginning of the movie medium, censors were in evidence. The first important story film was "The Great Train Robbery." A flood of films about crime followed, moving a Chicago judge to comment: "Those nickelodeons indirectly or directly caused more juvenile crimes coming into this court than all other causes combined."

Depictions of crime, sex and dope stirred moralists to seek controls over movies. By the mid-1920s, scores of cities and eight states— Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Virginia, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Ohio—had film censorship boards. A major reason film makers formed a producers association was to prevent the proliferation of censor boards.

"You have eight state censor boards now; some day you may have 48," warned film czar Will Hays. To help forestall such, he instituted the industry's self-censorship code.

Hays and his successor, Eric Johnston, strove to keep local censorship at a minimum. Then the U.S. Supreme Court came to the rescue.

New York State censors had banned "The Miracle" because it was "sacrilegious." In 1952, the Supreme Court unanimously overturned the ban and issued a sweeping decree that motion pictures are "included within the free speech and free press guaranty of the First and Fourteenth amendments."

In case after case, the courts have since nullified censorship boards. This month a federal court struck down the board in Fort Worth, Tex. Here is a survey of other cities and states, as reported by Associated Press bureaus:

MILWAUKEE — Mayor-appointed Motion Picture Commission screens films and recommends cuts. The commission has no enforcement powers but

Eshkol Is Ready To Meet Arabs

SHARM EL SHEIKH (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol said here Tuesday he is ready to meet President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, King Hussein of Jordan or any other Arab leader "for peace talks at any time at any place on land or at sea."

Speaking at the entrance to the Strait of Tiran, which Eshkol described as "the place where all the trouble started," the prime minister said his offer to confer with Arab leaders is not from a position of strength and arrogance.

"We want to forget the past and work for a lasting peace in the area," he declared.

exhibitors tend to comply.

NEW ORLEANS — No official censorship.

CINCINNATI — No official procedure, but police occasionally raid sensational films such as the recent "Mondo Topless."

BOSTON — The haven of censorship retains a censor in the chief of licensing division. Action isn't taken until a complaint is received. Review board includes members of the police vice squad, member of the City Law Department and sometimes the licensing chief. Exhibitors of offending films often withdraw them voluntarily; if not, court action is sought.

ATLANTA — No official censorship.

MEMPHIS — There has been no censorship since the city's long-time censor board was abolished by the courts.

DALLAS — A classification board labels films as "adult" or "general public." Adult films must be so advertised in newspapers and in front of the theater.

OKLAHOMA — The state has no official board of censors. The current legislature passed an obscenity law which could be applied to films, although it was aimed at the stag-reel type.

PORTLAND, Ore. — No censorship since the city's film review board was declared unconstitutional in "The Lovers" case. District attorney has twice taken cases to grand jury under state obscenity law.

MARYLAND — The only state censorship board left in the country is headed by Egbert Quinn, 82. All films must get licenses from a three-man board, which must act in 15 days or the applicant can be shown in the state.

KANSAS — The State Board of Review, which had operated since 1917, was ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court last year.

DETROIT — The Police Department reviews films and recommends cuts through the obscenity detail of the Liquor License Bureau. "We never ban a film outright," says an officer.

Sometimes the tag "recommended for adult patronage only" is suggested.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — No censorship.

CHICAGO — Five mayor-appointed civilians form a film review board, which was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1961. The board may restrict patronage to 18 or older, recommend cuts or reject a film entirely. If rejected, the film can be appealed to a board consisting of civilians from arts, sciences, etc. Last recourse is to the courts.

NEW YORK — No state or local censorship. The state's censor board went out of business in 1965 after court decisions riddled the censorship law.

SEATTLE — A review board has power to recommend cuts and to label films in age classifications. However, the ordinances empowering the board have been attacked in the courts, and a Supreme Court decision is awaited.

CHEYENNE — No censorship.

LOS ANGELES — No censorship. No police action, except against "hard-core pornography."

While local and state censorship has virtually been quelled in the United States, occasional outcry for control of film content remains. A longtime advocate of censorship has been Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

He argues: "The time has

6 The Circleville Herald, Wed. June 21, 1967
Circleville, Ohio

come for Congress and the state legislatures to take up this subject seriously. It used to be that one could go into almost any motion picture theater and see something clean, wholesome and entertaining. Now no family-loving man dares to take his children into a cinema house without first sending out a scout to find out if the picture therein is fit for the eyes of youth.

"We are willing to have water filtered, butter examined, meat inspected, drugs checked. Why should we not have supervision over what is being poured into the minds of young people?"

"The poison which enters their minds and souls in some of the motion picture theaters today can do, and is doing, more harm than narcotics and marijuana cigarettes."

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has expressed regret formally to the Soviet Union for the air attack on the Soviet ship Turkistan in North Vietnamese waters June 2.

The government assured the Russians it would try to "insure that such incidents do not occur."

Although the United States at first denied the Soviet charge that American planes were responsible, it agreed Sunday this might be the case, on the basis of recently acquired information.

American planes were operating in the area of Cam Pha, North Vietnam, where the Soviet ship was tied up, and were attacking North Vietnamese positions when the Soviet ship was attacked. One Soviet crewman was killed, and one was seriously hurt in the attack.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will meet with the prime ministers of Italy and Denmark later this week. Italian Prime Minister Aldo Moro, accompanied by Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, will be at the White House Thursday morning. On Friday morning Johnson will see Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag of Denmark.

Presidential press secretary George Christian had no word on whether Johnson would meet with other foreign leaders who are in New York for the U.N. General Assembly session.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A truck driver will help evaluate the Department of Transportation's proposed highway-safety standards.

Girls State President Has Problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nationalist Gov. Ann C. Hindman of Buckeye Girls State tries her hand at practical politics today—riding herd over a federalist-controlled legislature after being elected to office by a mere two votes.

The 16-year-old Miss Hindman of Columbus led her party to a near sweep of the six statewide offices when the more than 1,100 girls stators went to the polls Tuesday.

tary of state and Sharon M. Suggs, 16, pulled down 654 votes to become state treasurer. Miss Suggs, a Federalist from Urbana, defeated Marsha Mills, Georgetown, who got 572 votes.

Fruehauf Sues AIWA for Pickets

Elyria, Ohio (AP)—Fruehauf Trailer Corp. in Avon Lake filed a $38,987.91 damage suit in Lorain County Common Pleas Court Tuesday against Local 925 of the Allied Industrial Workers of America.

The company alleges that mass picketing prevented salaried personnel and operating engineers from leaving the plant and employees drew the amount named in the suit in regular and overtime wages that normally would not have been paid.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has expressed regret formally to the Soviet Union for the air attack on the Soviet ship Turkistan in North Vietnamese waters June 2.

The government assured the Russians it would try to "insure that such incidents do not occur."

Although the United States at first denied the Soviet charge that American planes were responsible, it agreed Sunday this might be the case, on the basis of recently acquired information.

American planes were operating in the area of Cam Pha, North Vietnam, where the Soviet ship was tied up, and were attacking North Vietnamese positions when the Soviet ship was attacked. One Soviet crewman was killed, and one was seriously hurt in the attack.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will meet with the prime ministers of Italy and Denmark later this week.

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Dear Editor:

Summer is upon us and children are plentiful and active.

At the corner of Franklin and Mingo streets there is a traffic light. Apparently many people don't know this as they go right through green or red. The playground is not far from this corner so there are many children crossing by the light. Cars go very fast, on both streets - too fast to stop for a child.

Just yesterday I sat on my porch and in fifteen minutes four cars proceeded through the intersection without care or caution right through a red light. There was no hesitation on the part of the drivers as they apparently didn't even see the light.

I have phoned the police several times concerning the traffic light. I was told it was quite expensive to put in a new traffic light. How much does a child cost?

Is there anything that can be done before one of our little ones is hurt or worse yet, killed? Shouldn't the police watch this corner to catch a few of these reckless drivers to let it be known there is a traffic light at Franklin and Mingo? Or will nothing be done until some thing happens?

I ask again, is the price of police watch or city help too much to pay for the protection of our children.

Sincerely,
MRS. RONALD KEATON

Dear Editor:

I read with interest a news release which appeared in your newspaper, as well as in others, concerning the request of the Teays Valley Department of Classroom Teachers, commonly referred to as the TV DCT, to the Ohio Educational Association asking for a study of the financial and educational situation in the Teays Valley School District with the possibility that the O.E.A. will invoke sanctions against the district in the future.

I believe that should the O.E.A. invoke any actions against the school district that the unfavorable publicity, combined with the possibility that the district would be unable to secure an adequate staff of qualified teachers, would do irreparable harm to the school children of this district; and is an eventuality which we sincerely hope will not come to pass.

I note one apparent minor discrepancy in the article which stated that membership in the TV DCT is 100 per cent. I believe one Ashville teacher did not join; and as a matter of fact, until the day before the association voted to ask the O.E.A. to make a study of the Teays Valley School District, less than 75 per cent of the teachers in the district were members. Many of those who joined, just prior to the vote, actually joined in order to vote against asking the O.E.A. to conduct a study, leading to less (as presently used) social drugs such as marijuana and peyote," to the problem drugs including opiates and hallucinogens such as LSD.

Blum said studies in the United States show many heroin users had earlier experience with marijuana, but he noted their history "is also likely to include even earlier illicit use of cigarettes and alcohol."

Blum said there is much evidence that many persons not in so-called heroin-risk neighborhoods who experiment with marijuana do not progress to hard narcotics.

And he added: "There is no reliable evidence that marijuana causes crime."

Blum said studies of LSD had shown use of the drug appeared concentrated in persons in the 20-35 age group. Until a few years ago its use was limited to an elite group of successful professionals, artists, and communication — industry friends.

But now, teen-agers, motorcycle-club members, delinquents, the urban poor and minority group members also use LSD.

Blum said there was no doubt that LSD use is followed by psychosis, a detachment from reality. He said some of these reactions are temporary and can be treated by certain tranquilizers such as thiorazine which "are now sold on the black market as part of the LSD 'trip' equipment."

But more severe reactions require long-term hospitalization.

"Crime associated with hallucinogen use appears to have been minimal," Blum said. "It would appear that insofar as decent citizens take hallucinogens, their behavior will remain lawful."

"We may expect that with the expansion of hallucinogen use to delinquent groups—and perhaps because it is now unlawful in some states so that its use becomes criminal—a greater frequency of crime will be reported." And, Blum added: "It is the person, not the drug, which is responsible for criminal act."

past state president of the Ohio Elks Assn. and is a past exalted ruler of the local lodge.

THE citation presented to Goldschmidt read:

"In recognition of service to veterans as the first chairman, committee on employment of restored veterans in Circleville: His outstanding performance in this pioneering effort exemplified the best in hospital community relationships, promoted community and employer acceptance of mentally restored veterans and brought national recognition to the Circleville Elks Lodge, the Ohio Elks Assn. and the exit unit of the Chillicothe VA Hospital. His signal service was in keeping with the highest tradition of the veterans and voluntary service."

Through the committee on employment of restored veterans, eight rehabilitated patients of the Chillicothe Hospital have been placed in jobs in Circleville.

Two of these eight remain employed here while the other six have gone on to better positions.

In addition to helping place restored veterans in gainful employment, the local committee conducts mock job interviews.

The job interviews were originally set up by Dr. Alden Bray, past chairman of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce committee on community service.

DURING the past two years, 80 veterans have received these mock interviews, conducted by the various business and industry leaders of the community.

The interviews are designed to better enable the restored veteran to apply for employment.

Dear Editor:

I read with interest a news release which appeared in your newspaper, as well as in others, concerning the request of the Teays Valley Department of Classroom Teachers, commonly referred to as the TV DCT, to the Ohio Educational Association asking for a study of the financial and educational situation in the Teays Valley School District with the possibility that the O.E.A. will invoke sanctions against the district in the future.

I believe that should the O.E.A. invoke any actions against the school district that the unfavorable publicity, combined with the possibility that the district would be unable to secure an adequate staff of qualified teachers, would do irreparable harm to the school children of this district; and is an eventuality which we sincerely hope will not come to pass.

I note one apparent minor discrepancy in the article which stated that membership in the TV DCT is 100 per cent. I believe one Ashville teacher did not join; and as a matter of fact, until the day before the association voted to ask the O.E.A. to make a study of the Teays Valley School District, less than 75 per cent of the teachers in the district were members. Many of those who joined, just prior to the vote, actually joined in order to vote against asking the O.E.A. to conduct a study, leading to possible sanctions against the school district. Also in this connection, I have been reliably informed that the Ashville Elementary teachers voted 20 to 3 against asking for the O.E.A. study, so the action of the group was far from unanimous. I also read with regret the statement that —Quote— "The school board, through inactivity, has not provided the leadership necessary for an adequate education in the Teays Valley School District." —End of quote.

Knowing from personal experience the long hours spent at board of education meetings by members of the board of education; the many trips they have taken at personal expense in order to study buildings and teaching methods to find ways to improve the educational processes in the district; the many public meetings they attended to explain the needs of the district; and their sincere desire to do what is best for the education of the young people in this district, I believe this criticism of the members of the Teays Valley Board of Education is ill-advised and not justified by a study of their record. I have worked for many years with many different members of the local boards of education and without exception each has been devoted to the best interests of the schools and each has worked hard and devoted many hours to make the schools of this district the finest institutions of learning they have been. Many of our students have won scholarship honors and many have been recipients of scholarships and other awards and bear evidence to the fact that our schools have done a good job of educating the youth of this community. Much of the credit for this fine educational record belongs to the school administration, headed by the board of education.

Of great regret also is the cleavage which some of this activity has wrought among members of the faculty, regrettably in many cases, between high school teachers and the elementary staff who have in former years co-operated well and between whom there has existed the most cordial relationship.

I sincerely hope, as do all dedicated teachers of this district, that the differences which have divided us will quickly be resolved to the satisfaction of all so that we can again unite in our efforts to make the Teays Valley School District continue as one of Ohio's finest.

Sincerely yours,

less (as presently used) social drugs such as marijuana and peyote," to the problem drugs including opiates and hallucinogens such as LSD.

Blum said studies in the United States show many heroin users had earlier experience with marijuana, but he noted their history "is also likely to include even earlier illicit use of cigarettes and alcohol."

Blum said there is much evidence that many persons not in so-called heroin-risk neighborhoods who experiment with marijuana do not progress to hard narcotics.

And he added: "There is no reliable evidence that marijuana causes crime."

Blum said studies of LSD had shown use of the drug appeared concentrated in persons in the 20-35 age group. Until a few years ago its use was limited to an elite group of successful professionals, artists, and communication — industry personnel, their families and friends.

But now, teen-agers, motorcycle-club members, delinquents, the urban poor and minority group members also use LSD.

Blum said there was no doubt that LSD use is followed by psychosis, a detachment from reality. He said some of these reactions are temporary and can be treated by certain tranquilizers such as thiorazine which "are now sold on the black market as part of the LSD 'trip' equipment."

But more severe reactions require long-term hospitalization.

"Crime associated with hallucinogen use appears to have been minimal," Blum said. "It would appear that insofar as decent citizens take hallucinogens, their behavior will remain lawful."

"We may expect that with the expansion of hallucinogen use to delinquent groups—and perhaps because it is now unlawful in some states so that its use becomes criminal—a greater frequency of crime will be reported." And, Blum added: "It is the person, not the drug, which is responsible for criminal act."

Psychedelicatessen Is Hippie Wonderland Spot

By JOHN VINOCUR

NEW YORK (AP)—The Psychedelicatessen opens for breakfast about noon and although it would seem painfully square to do anything so quiet and reasonable, queuing up outside are four New York hippies.

There is Sid the Girl, Groover in his buckskin leggings, barefoot Krina, and Jimmy in his grease-stained buccaneer outfit, a bent paper clip threaded through his right ear like Mr. Clean.

They go in past the tourists, sniff at the shop's incense stock and after a proper interval get at the mystery question. Where's the food? It is asked softly because the Psychedelicatessen has no license to sell food, and Swede, the owner, says the whole notion would terribly upset the fuzz.

This is Avenue A and Eighth Street, once the East Side melting pot and now a thoroughfare in the city's hippie turf. Some sightseeing buses have put it on their itinerary between the Stock Market and Chinatown. Depending on the traveler's viewpoint, it promises a sad freakshow or an enclave of hope and adventure.

Today, breakfast is half-hidden behind the counter—five or six cartons of milk and a brown paper bag splitting with onion rolls. It is out of sight of the tourists who come into the Psychedelicatessen for LSD-inspired art, joss sticks, posters of Kleenex and a hundred other hip accessories.

Swede, an old-timer who remembers the days when he was just a beatnik, sets out breakfast for free. He says it is mainly for the baby hippies, the teenage runaways who are just getting into the East Village scene. They are trying to save their milk and roll money for marijuana and LSD. Swede approves such thrift.

Cathy, his salesgirl, is not so charitable. Despite her African print bloomer suit, she can get very middle class about things like an arrest in the store that might disturb the tourists. She figures Jimmy as cop bait. He is 16 and has a face that invites frisking.

"Go on, get the hell out," Cathy says. Jimmy exits onto Avenue A.

About the same time, a man with an Indian feather in his hair and a woman with an Apache sweatband wrapped around her forehead are entering a commercial building five blocks away from the Psychedelicatessen. They are older than Jimmy, have figured out how to get their own breakfast, and now spend the days in their tribal home, a loft where about 30 senior hippies have banded together for a unified, totally apolitical communal life.

Most have dropped like arrows from the middle class and consider themselves the fulfillment of an Indian prophecy that the Shoshone nation one day would be reincarnated as white men.

"I was a frigid Midwestern housewife," says Karen who wears Tonto-type beads around her neck and dresses her year-old son Bobby in a golden cape. "You know, my brain was so bad I couldn't even read Time Magazine. Then I just dropped out, came East, started smoking and all the cobwebs went. Marijuana lifted myself out of myself."

"Look at me," says Peter, now dressing in a gray pharmacist's coat trimmed with bells after eight years teaching at the University of Wisconsin. "The secret, man, is just to ride along with the flow of life. I haven't made a decision or read a book since I dropped out and made the tribe."

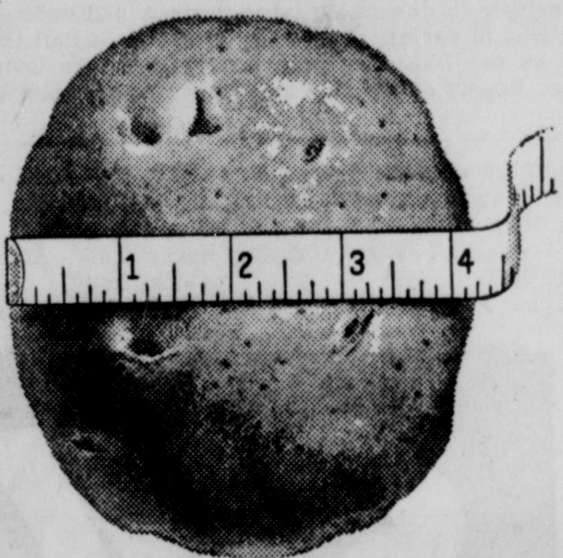

Both are members of the Group Image, one of the tribes like The Third World, Pablo and The Family Store that have their membership kicking in for rent and supplies.

The Third World has a three-story building on the Bowery, a truck, an electric frying pan, thousands of dollars of film equipment and apprentices who pay $25 a month to use it and inhale the tribal life. Pablo sells dresses and jewelry through a "joy dispenser" while its people work on electronic light shows in its studios. Only The Family Store, which shares a building with a sausage factory, operates mostly as a flophouse for baby hippies like Jimmy and Groover. It has a Big Daddy, who says he works for IBM. He pays most of the rent.

The Group Image is the most ambitious and vigorous of the families. It has its own rock band beginning to play uptown discotheques for $2,000 weekend fees, a graphics shop that does the band's publicity and subcontracts work for other firms, a darkroom, an interest in the publication of a psychedelic magazine and even a corporate name—Group Image Enterprises.

There is an intertribal council, an intertribal newsletter and a system of tithes on the owners of hippie shops like the Psychedelicatessen for a tribal

Good potato, but we won't use it

This is a NO. 1 grade potato.

But we won't use it for Jane Parker Potato Chips because it measures more than 4 inches in diameter.

We have minimum and maximum sizes to insure the best chips... the best eating.

But size isn't the only thing we're fussy about. We'll use only certain varieties of potatoes. There are 20 or more varieties we wouldn't think of using... they just don't make good chips.

We're careful about potato sugar content. It must be low to produce chips of uniform color.

We're fussy too about crispness, thickness and lots of other things.

This may seem like an awful lot of fussing, but that's the way we are about all Jane Parker products... about all the products we make.

When you think about it, shouldn't fussy A&P be your store?

The Group Image is the most ambitious and vigorous of the families. It has its own rock band beginning to play uptown discotheques for $2,000 weekend fees, a graphics shop that does the band's publicity and subcontracts work for other firms, a darkroom, an interest in the publication of a psychedelic magazine and even a corporate name—Group Image Enterprises.

There is an intertribal council, an intertribal newsletter and a system of tithes on the owners of hippie shops like the Psychedelicatessen for a tribal defense fund. The money is needed because hippies keep getting arrested on drug charges and, because they have no desire to turn off drugs, expect more arrests.

"There is no way around it, baby," says Karen. Marijuana, LSD, hashish and a new hallucinatory chemical—named STP by Hell's Angels—are the glue, essence and common denominator of all shades of hippie life.

Jimmy saves his money for it, tribe members share it when it's available, hover lovingly over each other's LSD trips to guard against "freakouts" or abnormal behavior, and in The Group Image, pass around a blue kazoo, remodeled into a hashish pipe, for community puffs.

While the tribal folk stay busy at home, many of the younger people are just lolling around. If it is not clear where they are going, and if they cannot always tell you the next day where they have been, it is because baby hippies are not supposed to. As they fit into what their elders on the scene call the "psychedelic revolution", it is understood that they will do little that is constructive, and spend time mostly sorting out their heads.

In the long unburied hippie afternoon, they lie in the grass of Tompkins Square Park or drift to someone's pad or just sleep. They smile at the mystified cops, sent by the hundreds to watch over them, and pose to suit the tourists.

"These kids are going through the great period of lethargy or readjustment that comes after your LSD vision," says Linn, a hippie theorist.

Like most of the Group Image people, Peter prefers staying in the loft except for nights when the band is playing somewhere, because it seems homey, friendly.

In four nights there, I saw nothing especially groovy or shocking happening, nothing like the time they tell of when everybody started to hum at once and so perfectly on pitch that the walls shook and a waiter from the Chinese restaurant downstairs came up to complain, tongue-tied with exasperation.

For that matter, I saw nothing as ecstatic in its way as a Jewish wedding or an Irish wake, and nothing as frightening and sad as a bitter argument between a middle-class husband and wife.

Most everybody is crowded into a room between the art studio and the dark room, stretched out on mattresses or sitting on the floor.

Peter is playing his flute, Artie and Rick strum their plugged-out amplified guitars. Someone is mumbling "cerebrum, cerebrum, medula," over and over and there is a chance he might be on an LSD trip, but no one pays particular mind. The blue kazoo is not in sight. There is the smell of marijuana in the air, but all is quiet, relaxed.

"We're all nutballs basically," said theorist Linn, pointing at the pink flowered belt he wears with his favorite janitor uniform. "Crazies, weirdos, loonies, who can't cut it in the real world. We're rejects from the middle class and we stick together because we need the protection."

"We're paranoid, we're misguided and we're an embarrassment to the nation. But if you go by the papers and the police, then there figure to be 50,000 more kids coming to the East Village this summer to drop out. You figure it. Go look at the letter in the hall."

The letter on the lined stationery of the City Jail on Rikers Island is from tribe member Charley. He is 18 and was busted on a charge of LSD. He asks that the group read the letter and send it on to his mother in Chicago. It ends this way: "The group is just like a large family. But we are happy too. We get into the Village Voice and the Daily News. I love you, Mom. Love to you from Charley."

The hippies say they mean to get around to forwarding it to Charley's mother, but at last look it's still on the wall.

Show Him Benefits of Air Conditioning

DEAR ABBY: We live in Huntsville, Ala., where it's very hot and humid. My husband makes over $20,000 a year, we live in a $35,000 home, have no debts, our children are gone and on their own, and we have money in the bank. My complaint? My husband refuses to put air conditioning in the house.

He works in air conditioned comfort all day while I slave over cleaning, cooking, ironing, and nearly die of the heat. He says cheap air conditioning is too noisy, and good air conditioning is too expensive. How can I change his mind?

BURNING UP IN HUNTSVILLE
DEAR BURNING: The price of the finest air conditioning system available will look like peanuts compared to what your husband would have to lay out in doctor bills should you collapse from heat exhaustion.

Make a little noise on your own, Sister, and chill that man of yours until he thinks a North Dakota blizzard has gripped Huntsville. So air conditioning is too expensive? It's a lot cheaper than alimony.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and his lovely wife of 16 years were divorced recently. It was my brother's fault. He "fell in love" with a twice-divorced tramp, so you know there was plenty of talk.

My brother had the nerve to bring this tramp to my home one evening to see how I "liked her". The next day I told him I didn't like her at all, and I didn't want her in my home again.

Last night while I was entertaining, my brother and this woman rang my bell. He said he saw the lights on and cars outside so he knew we were home.

I politely told them that they were not welcome in my home, so they left.

My brother thinks I owe him an apology. Do you?

"FUSSY"
DEAR FUSSY: No. Now he knows where he (and she) stands. Outside.

DEAR ABBY: I have so many problems, I don't know where to start.

Right now my two sons, ages 10 and 13, are fighting and yelling so loudly I can't even hear myself think.

This morning my husband told me he promised the guys at

D.C. Schools Must Make Big Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia's Board of Education, its policies termed discriminatory, is under federal court order to make massive changes in the capital's public school system.

Judge J. Skelly Wright of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued the order — which could have national implications — in a decision Monday that demanded revision of board policies on student placement, faculty hirings, busing and attendance regulations.

The verdict was a victory for Julius W. Hobson, a federal employee and civil rights leader, who hailed it as assuring "a bright future for the poor black boys and girls in the school system."

The Board of Education withheld immediate comment regarding a review by board attorneys.

Hobson, 45, who 18 months ago filed the suit against the board charging discrimination, said he hoped school officials would appeal Monday's ruling to the Supreme Court. He said if the high court upholds Wright's ruling it would strike a death blow to so-called de facto segregation, or racial imbalance in the schools, with sweeping ramifications for urban areas of the North.

Wright ordered the board to abolish immediately its system of placing students in "tracks" of varying academic difficulty depending on the students' scores on aptitude tests.

The judge called the aptitude tests "standardized primarily on white, middle class children" and said they forced most Negro children into tracks which offer reduced curricula and from which "chance of escape is remote."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Show Him Benefits of Air Conditioning

DEAR ABBY: We live in Huntsville, Ala., where it's very hot and humid. My husband makes over $20,000 a year, we live in a $35,000 home, have no debts, our children are gone and on their own, and we have money in the bank. My complaint? My husband refuses to put air conditioning in the house.

He works in air conditioned comfort all day while I slave over cleaning, cooking, ironing, and nearly die of the heat. He says cheap air conditioning is too noisy, and good air conditioning is too expensive. How can I change his mind?

BURNING UP IN HUNTSVILLE

DEAR BURNING: The price of the finest air conditioning system available to look like peanuts compared to what your husband would have to lay out in doctor bills should you collapse from heat exhaustion.

Make a little noise on your own, Sister, and chill that man of yours until he thinks a North Dakota blizzard has gripped Huntsville. So air conditioning is too expensive? It's a lot cheaper than alimony.

DEAR ABBY: My brother and his lovely wife of 16 years were divorced recently. It was my brother's fault. He "fell in love" with a twice-divorced tramp, so you know there was plenty of talk.

My brother had the nerve to bring this tramp to my home one evening to see how I "liked her". The next day I told him I didn't like her at all, and I didn't want her in my home again.

Last night while I was entertaining, my brother and this woman rang my bell. He said he saw the lights on and cars outside so he knew we were home.

I politely told them that they were not welcome in my home, so they left.

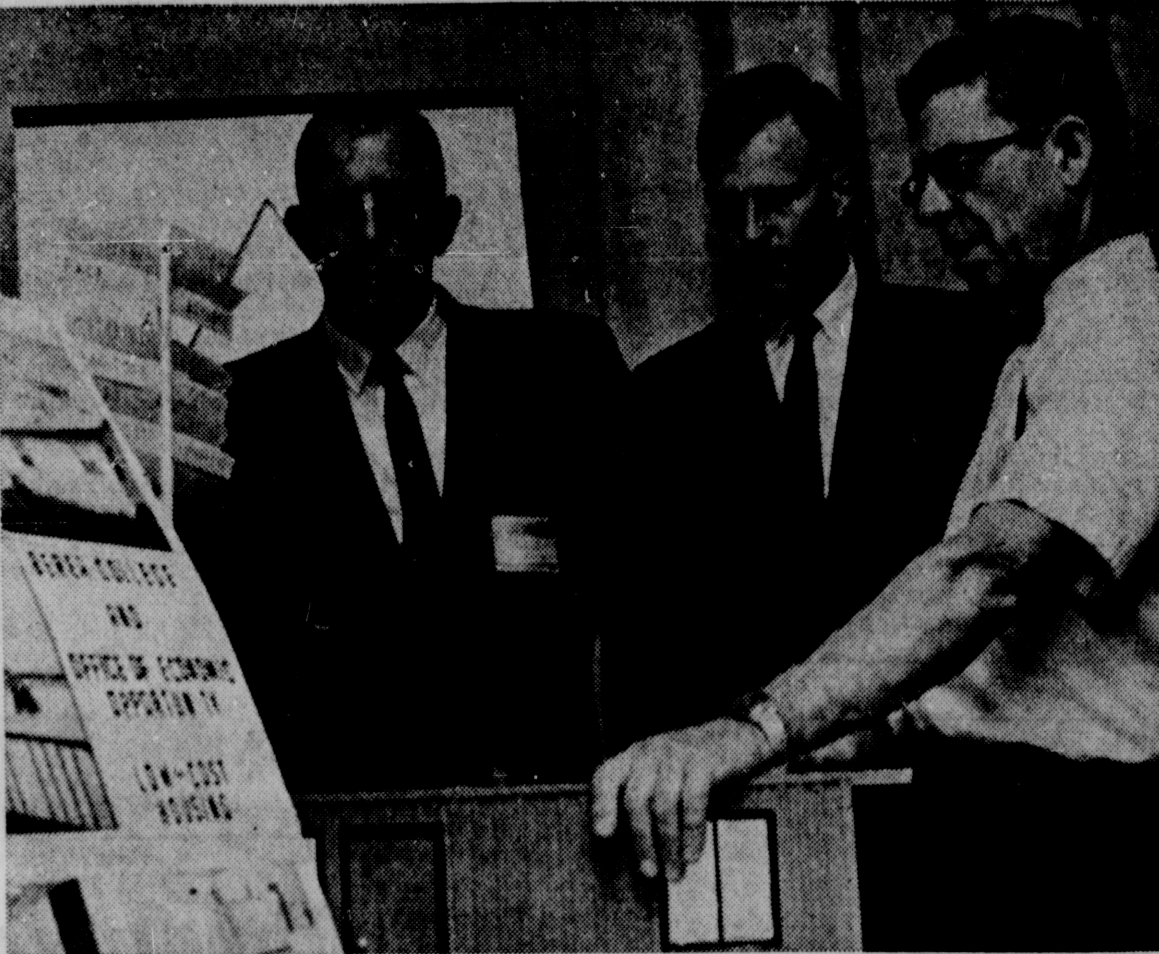

My brother thinks I owe him an apology. Do you?

"FUSSY" DEAR FUSSY: No. Now he knows where he (and she) stands. Outside.

DEAR ABBY: I have so many problems, I don't know where to start.

Right now my two sons, ages 10 and 13, are fighting and yelling so loudly I can't even hear myself think.

This morning my husband told me he promised the guys at

Clark Cited On Cleanup Court Order

Robert Clark of 380 Long St. was cited into Circleville Municipal Court for a previous violation of a city safety ordinance involving combustible materials and litter.

Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe issued the citation earlier this month and Clark appeared in front of Judge Sterling M. Lamb for sentencing. Judge Lamb, however, gave Clark a specified time in which to comply with the order.

In his second appearance on the cleanup citation, Clark had still failed to clean up the property and was handed a fine of $25 and costs and suspended the fine. Acting Judge Allan Berger levied the sentence in Judge Lamb's absence.

Wayne M. Burmaster, 22, of 280 Sherwood Dr., was cited into Muni Court for excessive speed and was fined $16 and cost. The judge, however, suspended $5 of the fine.

Charles W. Brown, 36, of 305 W. Mound St. was cited for excessive speed and was fined $10 and costs.

Faye L. Smiley, 66, Harrisburg, was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way and forfeited bond of $24.

Krabach Calls Meeting To Explain Tax Plans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Finance Director Richard Krabach called a news conference for this morning to explain an administration tax program that already had been leaked to newsmen.

But the finance director was expected to go into more detail on some of the proposals, particularly a proposed 1 per cent gross receipts tax on retailers that already has the big merchants' lobby working overtime.

Spokesmen for the Ohio Retail Merchants' Association protested that the proposed tax would cost about $100 million a year and stated frankly that the tax probably would be passed along to consumers.

There were these other developments as the administration put finishing touches on the big $125 million tax bill:

Muni Court for excessive speed violations were: Cecil L. Conrad, 29, of Route 1, $19; Carolyn E. Littlejohn, 29, Columbus, $24; Danny K. Hughes, 22, Lockbourne Air Force Base, $24; and David R. Goeller, 40, Cleveland, $19.

—An overflow crowd turned out Tuesday night and appealed to the Senate's Finance Committee to scrap an administration plan for 50-50 state-county sharing of increased payments in the Aid to Dependent Children program. Witnesses included various church and civic leaders who urged the state to pay the entire cost because counties do not have the additional funds.

—The House Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee sent to a subcommittee a hotly contested bill which would permit private insurance firms to sell workmen's compensation.

—House Speaker Charles F.

Kurfess R-4 Wood made an unusual appearance as a committee witness and testified as an opponent of capital punishment. The speaker told the House Judiciary Committee that even if the death penalty is a deterrent to crime its use has been too infrequent to make it an effective one.

—The House Government Operations Committee opened hearings on a bill aimed at preventing conflict of interests among members of the legislature. Sponsoring Rep. Carl B. Stokes D-44 Cleveland proposed

Police, Firemen Demand More Wages

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Youngstown Mayor Anthony B. Flak is to discuss police and firemen salary demands today with City Council, civic leaders and spokesmen for the two safety departments.

Police and firemen are asking for a weekly pay increase of $25. They have said they will picket City Hall during off-duty hours for the increase.

creation of House, Senate, and executive department committees to "receive complaints and render advisory opinions regarding questions of ethics or conflicts of public and private affairs."

The administration's tax bill assertedly will bring in an additional $245 million during the 1967-69 biennium for elementary, secondary, and higher education. No other statewide tax revisions have been proposed by the administration although it has said several permissive increases will be suggested to help local governments meet their problems. One allowing counties to tax utilities up to 5 per cent of consumers' bill was introduced earlier this week.

The House and Senate held routine floor sessions Tuesday.

The House approved and sent to the Senate joint resolutions for House members to fill vacancies from ranks of their own party — instead of by a costly special election, and requesting Congress to repeal antiquated laws on administration of school and ministerial lands and their trust funds.

Representatives passed 86-1 a Senate bill permitting disposal of certain liquid wastes in underground wells by regulation of the Division of Oil and Gas. The bill now goes back to the Senate for consideration of House changes.

Other bills passed by the House and sent to the Senate would regulate out-of-state insurance firms selling policies in Ohio by mail and authorize local tax levies for maintenance as well as operation of facilities for the mentally retarded.

The House breathed new life into a bill that would permit county commissioners to appropriate land outside their own borders for airport use when it approved a motion by Rep. Charles Fry R-9 Clark to reconsider the measure. The bill lost 48-37 on a Monday night floor vote with a constitutional majority of 50 needed for passage.

In other business, the Senate passed bills designed to close two loopholes in Ohio tax laws, bring Ohio labeling and packaging laws in line with more stringent federal statutes, and place title guaranty and trust companies now under jurisdiction of the State Auditor's Office under regulation of the Department of Insurance.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati sponsored the bills to halt a practice of listing publicly owned tax-exempt property on delinquent tax lists and tighten a restriction for prompt payment of taxes to local governments.

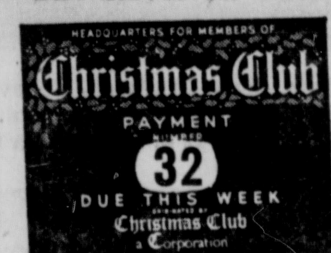

Maloney said deleting tax-exempt property from delinquent lists would reduce property valuations of political subdivisions and make poor school districts eligible for more state funds.

Each house received a handful of new bills. New House bills would permit a surviving spouse to collect $1,000 from the county auditor pending settlement of estates, give county-wide jurisdiction to Athens Municipal Court, tighten regulations for sale of new drugs, and permit reference of domestic relations cases to referees.

Sen. Paul Gillmor R-12 Seneca proposed in a new Senate bill to change statutes so that trains could not block rail crossings on public highways more than five minutes at any one time.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like a Western with the guys in the white hats and the guys in the black hats. Just who was wearing which hat at any given moment depended upon who was talking.

This was the condition at the end of the second day of debate on the Israeli-Arab war at the U.N. General Assembly.

Discussion reached the intellectual level of "you're another." Reason departed. Blame was the common language. Distortion became routine. Diplomats used bad manners and childishness to make an impression.

If any earnest and sensible effort is being made to reach a peaceful settlement, it must be going on behind the scenes. There what the delegates say to one another doesn't have to have any connection with what they say in the open.

In public they go through a predictable dance, like characters in a ballet.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is a good example. His purpose was clear before he began: Moscow wants to regain the goodwill of the Arabs whom they let down when the war with Israel began.

So he denounced Israel, asking the assembly to condemn it as an aggressor and tell it to give back the land it seized from the Arabs. He denounced the United States, too, but more mildly.

It was a tired kind of speech, full of the usual Communist clichés about "Western imperialism." He reached a peak of bad taste in making a comparison between the tactics of Israel and Hitler.

It was a one-sided speech, too, all on the side of the Arabs, ignoring any virtue Israel might have had on its side, and always calculated to endear the Arabs to Moscow.

But the Israeli foreign minister, Abba Eban who answered Kosygin brilliantly, made a one-sided speech, too. In addition, he denounced Kosygin for the Israeli-Hitler comparison and accused him of untruths.

But U Thant, the U.N. secretary general, also accused Eban of untruths.

This was after Eban criticized Thant for acting too fast in pulling the U.N. peacekeeping troops out of Egypt, where they had been stationed 10 years, when Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser told him to.

The usually docile Thant was angry Tuesday when he opened the session with an attack on Eban.

Then came the tactics which have become typical among diplomats who, to show their contempt for an opponent, get up and walk out in the middle of his speech. They apparently consider this a mature rebuke without ever thinking it may look childish.

One of the Arab leaders, Syrian President Nourreddin Atassi, was in the midst of a denunciation of Israel Tuesday when Eban walked out.

And when Eban made another talk Tuesday top-level Soviet bloc delegates and Arab leaders got up and walked out on him, which is what Kosygin did Monday while Eban was talking.

To nobody's surprise, for they couldn't do otherwise after Kosygin had laid down the Communist line, the premiers of Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia also made speeches attacking Israel.

The only graceful note in the two days came from Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and even that may turn out to be unrealistic.

He suggested, among other things, that Israel and the Arabs negotiate a settlement, a suggestion which the Arabs had already said they wouldn't consider.

But at least Goldberg offered a five-point peace plan, which is more forward-looking than anything Kosygin had to offer, although there was nothing new in it since President Johnson had proposed it Monday.

Yet, up to this point only one thing is clear. That's the policy the United States is following in this debate.

It has been letting all the others make the noise, denounce, condemn, distort, while it talks reasonableness. It is on the opposite side of the fence from Moscow in this debate, opposing condemnation of Israel.

But the United States is letting Israel make the big pitch for Israel while Goldberg talks about peaceful solutions and a new tomorrow. It's a startling contrast, although whether it influences the United Nations' 122 members is to be seen.

True-Life Gothic Tale Even Has Trappist Monk

SARITA, Tex. (AP) — Sitting on dusty folding chairs beneath a forbidding oil portrait of the late cattle and oil baron, Capt. Mifflin Kenedy, 100 Kenedy descendants crowded into Kenedy County courthouse Monday to begin a summer-long fight over a $300-million estate.

The hearing is scheduled to run through September. At stake is the 200,000-acre holdings of Sarita Kenedy East, a granddaughter of Mifflin Kenedy. Her last will brought a middle-aged Trappist monk into a hassle over some of the Kenedy millions.

The tangled estate of Mrs. East has been the subject of mountains of litigation since she died of cancer, Feb. 11, 1961, at the age of 71. With her at death was Christopher Gregory, 50, formerly "Brother Leo" in a Catholic order.

Some 100 relatives of Mrs.

East are challenging a 1960 will. They charged in court Monday that the will was written when she was under influence by Gregory. Attorney William Wright of Lardeo, Tex., said Gregory and shipping executive J. Peter Grace of New York "conspired" to get Mrs. East to draw up the will.

Mrs. East's holdings were valued by the federal government at $29 million for tax purposes. The discovery of a vast pool of oil and gas beneath her part of the La Parra Ranch built up by Capt. Kenedy more than a century ago, boosted that estimate to around $300 million.

The case is being heard by special Probate Judge William R. Edwards, a Corpus Christi attorney.

La Parra borders on the King Ranch. Capt. Kenedy and Richard King once were partners before each carved out a kingdom from the South Texas coastal plains.

Sarita Kenedy East became a widow in 1944. A few months after her husband's death she wrote the first of three wills, leaving various amounts to relatives, a Catholic religious order and charitable institutions.

A second will named two of her first cousins to share her interest in La Parra Ranch.

After the second will was made Christopher Gregory, son of a Western novelist, came into the picture.

As Brother Leo, Gregory had joined the Trappist order in 1938 and worked as a cobbler in a monastery at Spencer, Mass. After World War II Brother Leo was selected to venture forth and raise funds for additional lands and buildings for similar monasteries.

He visited La Parra in 1948. In the late 1950s he introduced Mrs. East to another benefactor of the Trappist order, Grace, president of W. R. Grace and Co. Mrs. East, then 70, opened a checking account at Grace National Bank and Brother Leo was given power of attorney to draw on hundreds of thousands of dollars there for expansion of the Trappist order.

Mrs. East became ill with cancer while traveling in South America with Brother Leo, by then her religious adviser, traveling companion and sometime secretary. She died Feb. 11, 1961.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like a Western with the guys in the white hats and the guys in the black hats. Just who was wearing which hat at any given moment depended upon who was talking.

This was the condition at the end of the second day of debate on the Israeli-Arab war at the U.N. General Assembly.

Discussion reached the intellectual level of "you're another." Reason departed. Blame was the common language. Distortion became routine. Diplomats used bad manners and childishness to make an impression.

If any earnest and sensible effort is being made to reach a peaceful settlement, it must be going on behind the scenes. There what the delegates say to one another doesn't have to have any connection with what they say in the open.

In public they go through a predictable dance, like characters in a ballet.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is a good example. His purpose was clear before he began: Moscow wants to regain the goodwill of the Arabs whom they let down when the war with Israel began.

So he denounced Israel, asking the assembly to condemn it as an aggressor and tell it to give back the land it seized from the Arabs. He denounced the United States, too, but more mildly.

It was a tired kind of speech, full of the usual Communist clichés about "Western imperialism." He reached a peak of bad taste in making a comparison between the tactics of Israel and Hitler.

It was a one-sided speech, too, all on the side of the Arabs, ignoring any virtue Israel might have had on its side, and always calculated to endear the Arabs to Moscow.

But the Israeli foreign minister, Abba Eban who answered Kosygin brilliantly, made a one-sided speech, too. In addition, he denounced Kosygin for the Israeli-Hitler comparison and accused him of untruths.

But U Thant, the U.N. secretary general, also accused Eban of untruths.

This was after Eban criticized Thant for acting too fast in pulling the U.N. peacekeeping troops out of Egypt, where they had been stationed 10 years, when Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser told him to.

The usually docile Thant was angry Tuesday when he opened the session with an attack on Eban.

Then came the tactics which have become typical among diplomats who, to show their contempt for an opponent, get up and walk out in the middle of his speech. They apparently consider this a mature rebuke without ever thinking it may look childish.

One of the Arab leaders, Syrian President Nourreddin Atassi, was in the midst of a denunciation of Israel Tuesday when Eban walked out.

And when Eban made another talk Tuesday top-level Soviet bloc delegates and Arab leaders got up and walked out on him,

which is what Kosygin did Monday while Eban was talking.

Golf's Greatest Trick Shotmaker Scheduled at PCC

GOLF SHOWMAN — Paul Hahn, shown here in his famous double action series of hitting a dozen balls in succession with a club in either hand, will appear at the Pickaway Country Club July 1. Tickets for the show, which will start at 6 p. m., are available at the PCC pro shop.

Paul Hahn, considered by all the experts as the world's greatest combination of golfer, trick shot artist, comedian and instructor, will present his full one-hour routine at Pickaway Country Club on 6:00 p. m. July 1.

When Hahn pulls out his tricks from the bag weighing 90 pounds he is a shotmaker hitting with the accuracy of a Ben Hogan. But where the stars of golf hit their precision-like shots with scientifically-engineered clubs, Hahn places the ball 240 yards down the fairway with a collection of zany clubs that look funny—and are. Fans may take photographs at any time.

His clubs have rubber shafts made of garden hose. They're swivel jointed. They have shafts six feet long as compared to the average driver of 42 inches.

You'll see Hahn hit off tees a yard high on one shot, kneel to hit the ball on another, balance on one foot, stand on a folding chair for another, hitting three balls, one after another, as they swing before him. No matter how, and from where he hits the ball, you'll see a shot traveling 230 to 250 yards straight down the fairway.

As he hits the ball, even in his famous double action series of hitting a dozen balls in succession with a club in each hand, you'll also hear a comedian cast in the mold of Bob Hope. Hahn is a funny fellow, and he's one guy whose talking doesn't bother his shotmaking. He hits the ball with his mouth open and the words pouring out.

Paul Hahn got his start as a trick-shot golfer after finding the tour unproductive of cash in 1948. He had taken the usual steps from caddy to club pro for those days, teaching in the Southeast before World War II. After four years at sea, Paul became the club pro in Hilo, Hawaii. He was playing so well that he decided the tour was for him.

When he couldn't win on the tour, he turned to teaching at the Glen Oak Country Club in Chicago. Then he went to California for another club job. There he began to develop his trick-shot repertoire. He tried for reactions with high school audiences. They were good, so the next stop was to hit the trail as a trick-shot golfer. That was in 1950.

Hahn has been a howling success ever since. Nowadays, he pilots his own airplane to most cities on his tour. He toured the world five times to travel, 1,500,000 miles with his big bag of tricks. He gave exhibitions in 41 countries, including England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, France, Italy, Egypt, Iraq, Arabia, Ceylon, Thailand, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Japan, Formosa, Guam, The Philippines, Australia, Okinawa, Hawaii, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Panama, Jamaica, Curacao, Trinidad, South Africa, Greece, Sicily, Spain, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Colombia, Nicaragua, Mexico, Canada, and of course, every section of the United States. He recently flew 18 combat sorties in Vietnam. Giving 17 performances for United States Troops. He has also been featured in motion pictures and on television.

Trainer John Nerud named the horse Minnesota Mac for his boss, William L. McKnight. The colt is a son of Rough 'n Tumble — Cow Girl.

Little League Minor Tilts Top Youth Baseball Play

The bulk of the action in the Circleville Youth Baseball program took place in the Little League Minors Tuesday with four games being played in the division.

Circleville Oil continued its winning way, outscoring Rotary, 33-17; First National Bank edged Ward's Market, 10-8; IOOF stopped Blue Ribbon Dairy, 5-1; Second National Bank downed Savings Bank, 19-11.

Chris Payne and Steve Debruin teamed up on the mound to hurl the undefeated Oilers to their fifth win. They walked ten, fanned five and were touched for ten hits. Extra base hits for the Oilers included homeruns by Jeff Hawks, Jeff See, two by Debruin, triples by Payne, Mark Scherer, Mike Karickhoff and See; doubles by Scherer, Payne, Karickhoff and Hawks.

For the losing Rotary nine, Randy Thomas homered and doubled, R. Brooks hit a triple, Brent Jones, Jorge Cook, and Rod Wolfe hit doubles, John Radcliff was the losing pitcher, allowing 28 hits, walking seven and fanning six.

WARD'S Market held a 7-5 lead after 4½ innings but the First National Bank crossed the plate five times in the bottom of the fifth to provide the winning margin.

The Bankers have a 4-1 record for the season while the Marketmen have won two and lost three. For the Winners, Perri Hoskins and Mike Gillian were the pitchers. Hoskins walked seven, fanned six and was touched for three hits. Gillian fanned three and allowed three hits. Hoskins hit a triple and a double for the winners. Charles Isaac and Scott Richardson also doubled.

For the losing Ward's nine, Jeff Spires blasted a homerun, Wade Camp homered, Bruce Brudzinski tripled. Spires and Shipley were the losing hurlers. Gary Giffin hurled the IOOF to its victory, limiting the Blue Ribbon batters to four scattered hits, including doubles by Mark Hoffman and Joe Smith. Giffin walked one and whiffed five.

Hoffman fanned nine, walked five and allowed three hits, including doubles by Marvin Mitchell and Jeff Ritchie. The winning Second National Bank combination devastated the Savings Bankers with an eight-run second inning and a seven run fourth inning, adding two runs each in the fifth and sixth frames to clinch their victory.

FOR the Second National, Tim

San Francisco Giants Defeat Cincinnati, 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants are hardly the fastest team in baseball, as evidenced by only one stolen base in 63 National League games.

Tuesday night, however, they flashed some speed on the base paths and ran Cincinnati Reds pitcher Mel Queen out of Candlestick Park while Juan Marichal beamed the majors, first 10-game pitching winner in a 5-1 romp.

The complete game was Marichal's 13th in 16 starts, tops in the majors.

Golf's Greatest Trick Shotmaker Scheduled at PCC

GOLF SHOWMAN — Paul Hahn, shown here in his famous double action series of hitting a dozen balls in succession with a club in either hand, will appear at the Pickaway Country Club July 1. Tickets for the show, which will start at 6 p. m., are available at the PCC pro shop.

Paul Hahn, considered by all the experts as the world's greatest combination of golfer, trick shot artist, comedian and instructor, will present his full one-hour routine at Pickaway Country Club on 6:00 p. m. July 1.

When Hahn pulls out his tricks from the bag weighing 90 pounds he is a shotmaker hitting with the accuracy of a Ben Hogan. But where the stars of golf hit their precision-like shots with scientifically-engineered clubs, Hahn places the ball 240 yards down the fairway with a collection of zany clubs that look funny—and are. Fans may take photographs at any time.

His clubs have rubber shafts made of garden hose. They're swivel jointed. They have shafts six feet long as compared to the average driver of 42 inches.

You'll see Hahn hit off tees a yard high on one shot, kneel to hit the ball on another, balance on one foot, stand on a folding chair for another, hitting three balls, one after another, as they swing before him. No matter how, and from where he hits the ball, you'll see a shot traveling 230 to 250 yards straight down the fairway.

As he hits the ball, even in his famous double action series of hitting a dozen balls in succession with a club in each hand, you'll also hear a convection cast in the mold of Bob Hope. Hahn is a funny fellow, and he's one guy whose talking doesn't bother his shotmaking.

He hits the ball with his mouth open and the words pouring out.

Paul Hahn got his start as a trick-shot golfer after finding the tour unproductive of cash in 1948. He had taken the usual steps from caddy to club pro for those days, teaching in the Southeast before World War II. After four years at sea, Paul became the club pro in Hilo, Hawaii. He was playing so well that he decided the tour was for him.

When he couldn't win on the tour, he turned to teaching at the Glen Oak Country Club in Chicago. Then he went to California for another club job. There he began to develop his trick-shot repertoire. He tried for reactions with high school audiences. They were good, so the next step was to hit the trail as a trick-shot golfer. That was in 1950.

Hahn has been a howling success ever since. Nowadays, he pilots his own airplane to most cities on his tour. He toured the world five times to travel, 1,500,000 miles with his big bag of tricks. He gave exhibitions in 41 countries, including England, Scotland, Belgium, Holland, France, Italy, Egypt, Iraq, Arabia, Ceylon, Thailand, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Japan, Formosa, Guam, The Philippines, Australia, Okinawa, Hawaii, Cuba, Peru, Rico, Panama, Jamaica, Curacao, Trinidad, South Africa, Greece, Sicily, Spain, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Colombia, Nicaragua, Mexico, Canada, and of course, every section of the United States. He recently flew 18 combat sorties in Vietnam. Giving 17 performances for United States Troops. He has also been featured in motion pictures and on television.

Trainer John Nerud named the horse Minnesota Mac for his boss, William L. McKnight. The colt is a son of Rough 'n Tumble — Cow Girl.

San Francisco Giants Defeat Cincinnati, 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants are hardly the fastest team in baseball, as evidenced by only one stolen base in 63 National League games.

Tuesday night, however, they flashed some speed on the base paths and ran Cincinnati Reds pitcher Mel Queen out of Candlestick Park while Juan Marichal became the majors, first 10-game pitching winner in a 5-1 romp.

The complete game was Marichal's 13th in 16 starts, tops in the majors.

The Giants' newfound speed helped produce three triples off the bats of Jim Hart, Tom Haller and Norm Siebern. Queen, now 8-2, was chased after 5 2-3 innings.

The win gave San Francisco a sweep of the two-game series.

Marichal, now 10-5, was shaky at the start and at the finish. But between the second and eighth innings the only damage off the right-hander was a pair of singles by Chico Ruiz.

The crippled Reds collected two of their five hits in the first, scoring on Floyd Robinson's double and a single by Tony Perez.

Marichal, who hadn't won a game since June 3 and missed his last turn with a pinched nerve in the back of his neck, then speared Johnny Edwards' grounder and threw him out at first.

The Giants scored twice off

Queen in the second on Hart's triple, Haller's sacrifice fly, Siebern's walk, a wild pitch and Bob Schroeder's single.

They chased the converted outfielder with two more runs in the sixth on Hart's single, Siebern's triple and Marichal's single. A walk to Ty Cline and Hart's third hit concluded the scoring in the seventh.

Ralph Abbe Wins At Scioto Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Abbe pulled out in the middle of the stretch and went on to win the $1,300 feature trot at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

Ralph Abbe, owned by Ralph Hennessey of Bellefontaine, turned the mile in 2:05 1-5, returning $5.00, $3.00 and $2.60. The 2-1 daily double combination of Lynn Johnston and Key Demon paid $14.40.

Shoemen Win 10-7 Battle

Block's Shoes defeated Hummel and Plum, 10-7, in the Mosquito League game played Tuesday on the Atwater School diamond.

At the end of the second inning, the winners trailed, 6-1, but held the Insurance men to one run for the remainder of the game while adding one in the fourth, three in the fifth and five in the sixth.

Brent Mancini and Wayne Linthicum were the pitchers for Block's. Linthicum walked five, fanned three. Mancini issued seven bases on balls and whiffed 11.

The winners cracked a total of four two base hits in the tilt, including two by Mancini, one by Charles Wolfe and one by Scott Barthelmas.

FOR HUMMEL and Plum, Robert Brown and Tommy Starr were the pitchers. Brown walked eight and struck out 11. Starr walked three and struck out one.

Block's has a 2-1 record for the season while Hummel and Plum has a mark of one win and two losses.

Phillies Breeze over Mets, 4-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Larry Jackson has tossed another curve at the law of averages — and the New York Mets are still waiting for it to break their way.

Jackson, Philadelphia's 36-year-old Met killer, borrowed a pitch from teammate Jim Bunning Tuesday night and beat New York for the 18th time without a loss, firing the second one-hitter of his career as the Phillies breezed to a 4-0 victory.

Jackson's 18-0 record against the Mets is second only to San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who has beaten the expansion club 19 times without a setback.

Marichal, however, is proving he can get along without the Mets. While Jackson was closing in on his anti-Met mark, the Giants' ace became the first 10-game winner in the majors by overwhelming Cincinnati's slumping Reds 5-1 on a five-hitter.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs upended Pittsburgh 5-3; St. Louis whipped Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 3-2 in 15 innings.

In the American League,

Washington knocked off Chicago 4-2; Boston slammed New York 7-1; Detroit edged California 2-1 and Cleveland outscored Kansas City 5-3. Baltimore and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Tommy Davis' second inning double—which barely eluded right fielder Johnny Callison's leaping grasp—was the only hit off Jackson, who registered his first victory over the Mets in their April 11, 1962 debut, while he was working for St. Louis.

The crafty right-hander hasn't let the Mets out of his hip pocket since then — but he still doesn't take them for granted. He attributed his one-hitter to a new curve ball he picked up from Bunning.

"I've changed my grip," Jackson said. "I'm choking up on the ball and holding it like Bunning does. He's got such a great curve—and mine never was much."

"Now I wish I'd started throwing it 10 years ago."

Jackson pitched his first one-hitter three years ago against Cincinnati. He has hurled 33 career shutouts—six of them against New York.

The Phillies gave him a quick sendoff with three runs in the first inning on Tony Taylor's single, Rich Allen's triple and Don Lock's sixth homer. They added a run in the fourth on Lock's single and a double by Gene Oliver.

Marichal, who missed his last turn because of a pinched nerve in his neck, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning but stymied the Reds thereafter while boosting his record to 10-5.

The Giants roughed up Mel Queen, 8-2, for two runs in the second and knocked him out in a two-run sixth. Jim Hart laced a triple and two singles, scored two runs and knocked in a pair as the injury-riddled Reds went down to their fourth straight defeat.

Rookie, Chuck Hartenstein blanked Pittsburgh over the final 4 2-3 innings as the Cubs ended the Pirates' winning string at three games. Ron Santo and Ted Savage paced Chicago's 14-hit attack with three hits apiece, Santo driving in two runs.

Hartenstein rescued starter Joe Niekro after Donn Clendenon's three-run homer in the fifth lifted the Pirates within one run.

Dal Maxvill drilled a tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning and Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer in the eighth as the Cardinals pulled away from the Astros and increased their league lead over second-place Cincinnati to 1 1/2 games.

Houston's Julio Gotay stroked two hits for a club record of eight in a row before winning pitcher Larry Jaster ended the streak.

Atlanta reliever Claude Raymond filled the bases in the 15th inning with an intentional pass to pinch hitter Ron Fairly, then forced home the winning run by walking John Roseboro.

The Dodgers' second straight one-run nod over the Braves gave them a run of six victories in their last seven games—including four in a row.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Work days? A pity. You missed the start Monday of ABC's daily "The Family Game."

This one has a predictably suave, handsome master of ceremonies, three pairs of thirtysix, all-America-looking parents and, with each couple, two cute, chubby children.

Despite the overabundance of gloss, it's fun. After jolly introductions the parents retire to a soundproof booth and the youngsters answer questions designed to reveal family secrets.

Emcee Bob Barker: "Which one of these Seven Dwarfs best describes your father in the morning — Sleepy, Happy or Grumpy?"

Two tots chose Grumpy, one Sleepy. The parents returned and two correctly guessed their children's answer.

Other questions brought out the time mom let her equilibrium and the time pop ran through the petunia bed.

Reviewers are expected to lambaste television game shows. Truth to confess, I find it hard to muster great venom because I have long enjoyed playing parlor games myself.

Friends still compliment a charade that required only a supine position to portray a mountain chain: "Himalayin."

Probably the most charitable thing to say for television games is that they are harmless plantings between more nourishing crops in the television wasteland.

From elsewhere on the radio and television dials, one fan's reactions.

Do those extra-strength-remedy blasts give you, too, a headache? How about that toothpaste that "gives your mouth sex appeal"? A woman caller to a telephone show complained she was having difficulty explaining the blurs to her 5-year-old. And those handsome ladies, barely out of their 20s, who advertise denture adhesive.

With its abundance of witnesses, NBC's one-hour Monday study of New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation was confusing — but interesting anyway.

Refreshing candor by Walter W. Straley of American Telephone Telegraph as he accepted the American Symphony Orchestra League's gold baton award for the audience-hungry "Bell Telephone Hour":

"To level with you, the Telephone Hour is mostly a corporate whim. As a part of our advertising program it is difficult — nay, impossible — to justify. Now and then a corporation should divert itself from waving its banners for the attention of great masses of people and wave one fine banner simply because it deserves waving."

Temporary Peace Reigns in Golf

CLEVELAND (AP) — There's peace again — at least temporarily — on the pro golf tour.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper and Co. will play in the Professional Golfers Association Championship at Denver, Colo., next month, and the nations' top pros will play against Britain in the Ryder Cup matches at Houston in October.

This was made certain in an impromptu meeting here late Tuesday night after the pros and top PGA officials had broken up an earlier showdown meeting with bitter exchanges and in an apparent stalemate.

It appeared certain that the top touring pros were going on with their determination to form a maverick tour when Max Elbin of Washington, the PGA president, got the Players' Tournament Committee into a private session just before midnight and hammered out these points of agreement:

1. The tour will be under the full direction of Jack Tuthill, the present tournament director, instead of Executive Director Bob Creasy, with Billy Boie serving as assistant.

2. The television program will be run by the tournament committee and not PGA headquarters, with Marty Carmichael in charge.

3. The current seven-man tournament committee, consisting of the four player representatives and the top three PGA officials, will be supplemented by a fourth PGA representative, in this case Harry Pezullo of Northbrook, Ill. In case of a voting deadlock, the issue will be referred to a three-man board from the Advisory Committee.

4. The PGA will retain its powerful right of veto on policy. "I don't think either side had to give up anything — we both got largely what we wanted," said Elbin, pro at the famed Burning Tree course in the nation's capital and golf teacher of three presidents.

"It is a good settlement, we are perfectly satisfied," said Dan Sikes, chairman of the players committee which also includes Gardner Dickinson, Mason Rudolph and Doug Ford. "We wanted to remain in the PGA, but we didn't want to give up all of our rights," said Ford. "I think this settlement will be satisfactory to everybody."

"The thing was," added Phil Rodgers, one of the touring pros, "we didn't want to hurt golf, and this controversy might have shaken it."

The players' main demand was the right to run their own show, a $4.5-million enterprise which has rich added television benefits. In essence they get this by installing Tuthill, their tour man, in the driver's seat in place of Creasy, a former Washington assistant labor secretary, to whom many of the players had strong objections.

The players also received greater control over television monies which amount to about $800,000 a year, and they feel that they got a break in make-up of the advisory committee. "Now when we have a stalemate, we both have to go to the Executive Committee," Sikes said. "We can go to the advisory committee which could include such prominent men as Sen. Smathers of Florida; Bob Bob Hope and Bing Crosby."

The three members of the Advisory Committee have not been named.

In giving up a greater voice in the control of the tour, the PGA retained its veto power which it considers a strong point.

The top name pros are here for the $105,000 Cleveland Open, which begins Thursday at the Aurora Country Club. A pro-am tournament was scheduled today as a preliminary event.

Tuesday 52 pros competed at Aurora for berths in the coming PGA Tournament. Don Massengale and three others qualified, Massengale leading the scorers with a 7168—139 on the par 70 course. Also qualifying were Rich Bassett, Bruce Crampton and Dick Crawford. Massengale and four others qualified, with 140s and Rod Funseth with a 141.

Tiant's Homer Wins Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — "When me hit, me win."

That's how Cleveland Indians' pitcher Luis Tiant feels about his winning streak — and hitting. He did it again Tuesday night.

Tiant stepped into a 3-2 pitch and lined it over the left field fence for a homer in the seventh inning, helping his own cause in a 5-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

It was Tiant's sixth straight win and each time he has hit safely.

After Tiant trotted around the bases and back to the dugout, he found Fred Whitfield passed out in a phony feint and Max Alvis pretending to fan him back to reality.

"I knew what was coming," Tiant said of the impromptu vaudeville show.

"I couldn't believe it," said Whitfield, after he recovered.

"I could," said Chuck Hinton. "The pitchers are starting to bear down because they can help themselves."

"Tiant added: 'I was a good hitter once in Cuba. That was when I played shortstop, third base and those positions.'"

Tiant (6-1) needed help, however, in the ninth inning. He had a three-hitter going until Rick Monday homered over the right field fence. Dan Cater and Jim Gosger rapped back-to-back doubles and Steve Bailey came on in relief.

Bailey fired a wild pitch, but then struck out Reggie Jackson and pinch-hitter Dave Duncan.

Lee Maye staked Tiant to a 1-0 lead with his fourth homer in the third. The Indians made it 3-0 in the fourth on Alvis' run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by Pedro Gonzalez, who hit another in the sixth.

Tiant, who hasn't lost since April 14, retired 15 in a row and didn't allow a hit until Phil Roof led off the sixth with his third homer.

Jim Nash (7-5) took the defeat.

The Indians open a two-game series against California tonight, with O'Donoghue (3-1) facing Jim McElhiney (6-1).

Phillies Breeze over Mets, 4-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Larry Jackson has tossed another curve at the law of averages — and the New York Mets are still waiting for it to break their way.

Jackson, Philadelphia's 36-year-old Met killer, borrowed a pitch from teammate Jim Bunning Tuesday night and beat New York for the 18th time without a loss, firing the second one-hitter of his career as the Phillies breezed to a 4-0 victory.

Jackson's 18-0 record against the Mets is second only to San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who has beaten the expansion club 19 times without a setback.

Marichal, however, is proving he can get along without the Mets. While Jackson was closing in on his anti-Met mark, the Giants' ace became the first 10-game winner in the majors by overwhelming Cincinnati's slumping Reds 5-1 on a five-hitter.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs upended Pittsburgh 5-3; St. Louis whipped Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 3-2 in 15 innings.

In the American League,

Washington knocked off Chicago 4-2; Boston slammed New York 7-1; Detroit edged California 2-1 and Cleveland outscored Kansas City 5-3. Baltimore and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Tommy Davis' second inning double—which barely eluded right fielder Johnny Callison's leaping grasp—was the only hit off Jackson, who registered his first victory over the Mets in their April 11, 1962 debut, while he was working for St. Louis.

The crafty right-hander hasn't let the Mets out of his hip pocket since then — but he still doesn't take them for granted. He attributed his one-hitter to a new curve ball he picked up from Bunning.

"I've changed my grip," Jackson said. "I'm choking up on the ball and holding it like Bunning does. He's got such a great curve—and mine never was much."

"Now I wish I'd started throwing it 10 years ago."

Jackson pitched his first one-hitter three years ago against Cincinnati. He has hurled 33 career shutouts—six of them against New York.

The Phillies gave him a quick sendoff with three runs in the first inning on Tony Taylor's single, Rich Allen's triple and Don Lock's sixth homer. They added a run in the fourth on Lock's single and a double by Gene Oliver.

Marichal, who missed his last turn because of a pinched nerve in his neck, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning but stymied the Reds thereafter while boosting his record to 10-5.

The Giants roughed up Mel Queen, 8-2, for two runs in the second and knocked him out in a two-run sixth. Jim Hart laced a triple and two singles, scored two runs and knocked in a pair as the injury-riddled Reds went down to their fourth straight defeat.

Rookie, Chuck Hartenstein blanked Pittsburgh over the final 4 2-3 innings as the Cubs ended the Pirates' winning string at three games. Ron Santo and Ted Savage paced Chicago's 14-hit attack with three hits apiece, Santo driving in two runs.

Hartenstein rescued starter Joe Niekro after Donn Clendenon's three-run homer in the fifth lifted the Pirates within one run.

Dal Maxvill drilled a tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning and Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer in the eighth as the Cardinals pulled away from the Astros and increased their league lead over second-place Cincinnati to 1½ games.

Houston's Julio Gotay stroked two hits for a club record of eight in a row before winning pitcher Larry Jaster ended the streak.

Atlanta reliever Claude Raymond filled the bases in the 15th inning with an intentional pass to pinch hitter Ron Fairly, then forced home the winning run by walking John Roseboro.

The Dodgers' second straight one-run nod over the Braves gave them a run of six victories in their last seven games—including four in a row.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Work days? A pity. You missed the start Monday of ABC's daily "The Family Game."

This one has a predictably suave, handsome master of ceremonies, three pairs of thirtyish, all-America-looking parents and, with each couple, two cute, chubby children.

Despite the overabundance of gloss, it's fun. After jolly introductions the parents retire to a soundproof booth and the youngsters answer questions designed to reveal family secrets.

Emcee Bob Barker: "Which one of these Seven Dwarfs best describes your father in the morning — Sleepy, Happy or Grumpy?"

Two tots chose Grumpy, one Sleepy. The parents returned and two correctly guessed their children's answer.

Other questions brought out the time mom let her equilibrium and the time pop ran through the petunia bed.

Reviewers are expected to lambaste television game shows. Truth to confess, I find it hard to muster great venom because I have long enjoyed playing parlor games myself.

Friends still compliment a charade that required only a supine position to portray a mountain chain: "Himalayan."

Probably the most charitable thing to say for television games is that they are harmless plantings between more nourishing crops in the television wasteland.

From elsewhere on the radio and television dials, one fan's reactions.

Do those extra-strength-remedy blasts give you, too, a headache? How about that toothpaste that "gives your mouth sex appeal"? A woman caller to a telephone show complained she was having difficulty explaining the blubs to her 5-year-old. And those handsome ladies, barely out of their 20s, who advertise denture adhesive.

With its abundance of witnesses, NBC's one-hour Monday study of New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation was confusing — but interesting anyway.
